F. R. NAMES STIMSON, KNOX IN COALITION WAR CABINET

WASHINGTON, June 20 (INS)—In a coalition move, President Roosevelt today appointed two prominent Republicans to his cabinet—Henry L. Stimson as Secretary of War to succeed Hany Woodring, whose resignation was just accepted, and Frank Knox, former publisher of the Boston American, as Secretary of the Navy.

NAZIS WAIT FRENCH REPLY, TAKE LYON, RAID BORDEAUX

BERLIN, June 20 (AP)—France's three plenipotentiaries to receive the momentous German-Italian armistice terms already may have landed by airplane somewhere far beyond the mobile front in France, informed sources said today.

A Rome dispatch said the meeting already had taken place; that hostilities would end either tomorrow or Saturday, and that the French plenipotentiaries were returning to Bordeax. — Editor's note.

A snow-white plane carried the French envoys to an undisclosed meeting place behind the German lines to receive the German price for peace.

The word that Gen. Charles Huntziger, eLon Noel, former French ambassador to oPland, Vice-Admiral Leluc and Aviation Gen. Bergeret had been named by the French government to receive the terms was relayed through Spain.

DENY RUCE BARRED

The mesage reached the German government at 1 a. m. and was relayed to Hitler three hours later.

"The high command of the German forces thereupon gave the necessary instructions immediately and made preparations for receiving the French armistice delegation," said a German announcement. It did not, however, give the time or place for the meeting.

Early reports that Hitler planned to freeze Mussolini out of the peace talks wkere discounted when authorized sources in Berlin expressed annoyance over the rumors.

Such talk was called "utter nonsense" and it was recalled that Mussolini helped Hitler at Munich to formulate the demands to be handed to the French plenipotentiaries.

Authorized quarters declined flatly to discuss the probable duration of the peace talks which, it is generally believed, will be confined to the solemn submission of Hitler's terms.

TERMS KEPT SECRET

The German press and radio repeatedly reported the French government was in disagreement over laying down arms, but emphasized that this was of no consequence.

"No logical mind in England or France at the present moment is able to make a decision which envisages putting up resistance against German troops on French soil," said the Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe.

The German population remained

Petain Tells France Why He Had to Seek German Peace

BORDEAUX, France, June 20 (INS)—Formal announcement that France has named plenipotentiries to negotiate an armistice with Nazis Germany was made by Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain in a radio broadcast today.

"Too few children, too few arms and too few Allies were the cause of our defeat," the 84-year-old hero of Verdun said in a choking voice.

The phase "too few children" undoubtedly meant too few French soldiers, always referred to as "my children" by French army commanders.—Editor's note.

"People of France. I have asked the enemy to put an end to hostilities," the aged premier said in beginning his talk.

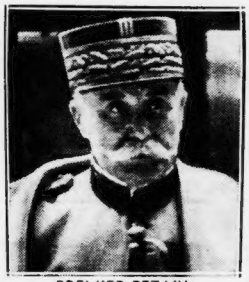
"The government yesterday appointed plenipotentiaries to receive the condition of peace.

"I took this decision with the stout heart of a soldier, because the military situation imposed it.

"We hoped to resist on the Somme-Alsne line. Enemy pressure, however, forced our troops to retreat from June 13 onward.

"The request for an armistice was inevitable.

"The blow surprised you. Remembering 1914 to 1918, you sought reasons for it.



PREMIER PETAIN

"I am going to give them.

"On May 1, 1917, we had 3,280 000 men under arms despite three years of murderous fighting.

"On the eve of the present battle we had 500,000 fewer.

"In May, 1918, we had 85 British divisions. In May, 1940, we had only ten.

"In 1918 we had fifty-eight Italian divisions and forty-two American divisions.

"nferiority of our material was even greater than that of our effectives.

"French aviation fought at odds of one to six.

"Not so strong as 22 years ago, we had fewer friends, too few children, too few Allies. There is the cause of our defeat.

"The French people will not deny the blow. All peoples have ups and downs. We will learn a lesson from the battle which has been lost.

"Since the victory (World War) the spirit of pleasure has rifice. The people have demandprevailed over the spirit of sacred more than they have given. They wanted to spare themselves effort. Today, misfortune has come.

"I was with you in the glorious days. As head of the government, I will remain with you in the dark days. Stand by me.

"The fight still goes on. It is for France, and the soil of her sons."

U. S. TO SEEK AIR, NAVAL BASES, ARMY OF MILLION

WASHINGTON, June 20—Establishment of Latin-American bases for the United States Navy, a usually well-informed source said today, may be one of the subjects raised at the projected Pan-American conference on hemisphere problems of military and economic defense.

Both aircraft and fleet bases would be involved in any such discussion, this official said.

The matter of navy bases in Latin-American nations, it was emphasized, is still in the discussion stage.

Sixteen replies, understood to be favorable, have been received by the State Department from other American countries to its suggestion fo an immediate Pan-American conference to discuss the problems. Answers from the other four were exected momentaily.

HULL OR WELLES TO GO

While details of the conference have not yet been worked out, officials thought it likely to convene during the first week in July. The United States will be represented by either Secretary of State Cordell Hull or Undersecetary Sumner Welles.

Other subjects likely to be included in the agenda are:

A general Pan-American affirmation ofthe Monroe Doctrine as it applies to transfer of territory in this hemisphere from one non-American state to another. A sharp warning that the United States will not tolerate such such transfer already has been sent to Rome and Berlin. The United States' position in this respect would be made even stronger if bulwarked by similar declarations from the other countries of the western world.

Nazi-Fascist plots against the political and economic sovereignty of Latin-American states and ways of combatting them. The governments of at least two nations to the sotuh already have taken drastic steps to curb these activities—Mexica and Uruguay.

WOULD TRAIN MILLION

Meanwhile a proposal for the United States to grant Mexico a $10,000,000 credit to bolster its defenses was revealed by officials.

Two new far-reaching plans to strengthen the country's defense are being worked out by army and civilian experts for submission to Congress.

The plans are expanded mechanization of the army at an estimated cost of $1,000,000,000 and the training of 1,000,000 youths, both for combat and behind-the-lines military service, as the first step in Pres. Roosevelt's mobilization-of-youth proposal.

The War Department, congressional sources said, has decided—like the navy—that the French capitaulation and changed world situation make it imperative that the army be expanded far beyond original plans.

Mr. Roosevelt has informed congressional advisers that he has a corps of experts preparing a plan for the training of 1,000,000 young men in civilian Conservation Corps, National Youth Administration and other organizations.

SLOW UP NAVY BILL

The tentative plan, it was explained, is to train some youths for actual combat military service. Others would be trained to become airplane mechanics, cooks, tank mechanics or in other lines of behandthe-front army service.

Meantime, the drive for enactment of the new Vinson $4,000,000,000 naval expansion bill was slowed up in Congress.

Democratic House leaders rejected the proposal of Rep. Vinson (D.) of Georgia, chairman of the naval affairs committee, that the measure be called up for passage today. The bill, it was intimated, may not be considered for several days unless a White House request for action is made.

A bipartisan rebellion against adjournment or prolonged recess of Congress presaged continued sessions through the next several weeks.

Results of a canvass by the House leadership indicated sufficient votes not only to block adjournment, but also to prevent Democratic plans to recese from Saturday until Aug. 1.

BORDEAUX, June 20 (AP)—France gave up her third largest city, Lyon, to German invaders today, while a snow-white plane carried her supplicants for a soldier's peace to a rendezvous with Adolf Hitler or his agents.

A Rome Associated Press dispatch said a meeting already had taken place and that the French plenipotentiaries were returning to Bordeaux. The dispatch said that hostilities would end Saturday.—Editor's note.

Hitler's terms for halting the blitzkrieg still were undisclosed publicly.

The French council of ministers, meeting with President Lebrun, pondered the grave situation of France amid unconfirmed reports that the French somehow had previewed the Hitler terms, had found them too harsh and had decided to continue the fight, possibly from French North Africa.

LEBRUN IN AFRICA?

The presence of Lebrun at least amended one phase of the France-will-fight-on rumors, for it had been said that the president as well as other leaders had gone or were ready to go to Algiers, a department of France in North Africa, there to set up the structure of government for a continued fight.

The most exact, if incomplete, word on the future of France, however, was that a white plane of peace—hastily painted to spare it from German airmen and anti-aircraft gunners—left a southern French airport early this morning with three French plenipotentiaries to receive the German terms.

From Germany came the disclosure that the peace plane already had landed somewhere far behind the ever-advancing front. —Editor's Note.

Delivery of the peace terms to France will not be conclusive. They must be acted upon by the French government. Meanwhile the war went on.

As if to demonstrate the Reich's overpowering aerial superiority German planes during the night roared down upon this provisional capital on the Atlantic seaboard for Bordeaux' first bombardment of the war.

Unofficial estimates said that more than 60 persons were killed or injured.

Of Germany's new conquests of French soil, the French reported that Lyon (normal population 570,000) was occupied by German forces driving down the Allier and Rhone valleys. Lyon is a manufac-

DUKE'S ARREST ORDERED, BERLIN HEARS—For a reported attitude hostile to the British government and king, the Duke of Windsor has been ordered arrested as soon as he steps on British soil, Germany's official news agency DNB reported today. The Duke, who gave up the British throne for love, is shown with his wife, once Wally Simpson of Baltimore, and Fuehrer Hitler . . . pictured when he was in Germany to study housing projects.

'Jail Windsor' Order Issued, Berlin Hears

The Duke of Windsor, former King of England, is a fugitive from British arrest according to reports published in Berlin and Rome today, and relayed here by International News Service.

Associated Press, which did not report these stories, said from Cannes, France, the Duke had left his Riviera residence headed for Spain, after telling the British consul he would not return to England. . . The American-born Duchess, the former Wally Simpson, already had left.

According to Berlin, Windsor's arrest was ordered by Winston Churchill because he had adopted an attitude hostile to the British government and to the king, his brother.

The brief Rome report said vaguely that his arrest was ordered "because he allegedly reclaimed the British throne."

There was no corroboration of either report.

London officials refused all comment.

The Duke's departure from France for Spain, the only point officially confirmed, might have been to avoid capture by the Italians, some observers said.

This departure was told of by Associated Press in the following dispatch:

FROM FRANCE:

CANNES, France, June 19 (5:50 p. m., 12:50 a. m., E. D. T. delayed) (AP)—The Duke of Windsor left his Riviera residence by automobile today headed for Spain. The American-born Duchess already had departed.

Shortly before the Duke departed today he was reported to have told the British consul at Cannes he did not plan to return to England, but probably would go to Spain. He mentioned using a yacht or plane, although he left Cap D'Antibes by motor car.

To reach Spain by motor he would have to circle the Gulf of

NAZIS KILL 6, WOUND 60 IN NEW RAID ON BRITAIN

LONDON, June 20—A Nazi air fleet authoritatively put at considerably more than 100 planes, dumped hundreds of bombs on England, Scotland and Wales last night and early today in the most extensive air raid of the war on this island kingdom.

At least six civilians were killed and "some sixty" injured, the government announced. It was the second raid in as many days on Britain and, considering the number of bombs dropped, the reported damage was slight.

The Nazis apparently changed their line of attack and aimed more at the industrial areas than on Tuesday night, when 12 were killed.

British airmen exacted their toll of the raiders—downing three bombers while other aircraft were, the government reported, wrecking hangars and destroying aircraft on the ground at German-occupied airports in France.

ANZACS ARRIVE

Anti-aircraft fire accounted for another Nazi raider while several others were badly damaged.

Meanwhile, more help has arrived for Britain from Australia and New Zealand. Thousands of fighting Anzacs landed from world-famous liners at a British port, shouting for a "chance at Jerry."

The casualties of the second big raid were announced after a check by the Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security. The report also mentioned damage in three towns.

This attack, apparently Germany's most determined aerial effort against Great Britain, followed by just one day raids which, although less extensive, took a toll of 12 killed and 30 injured.

British authorities expressed confidence there would be "no need to worry" regarding disposition of the French fleet.

These quarters said that no offi-

50,000 POILUS FLEE INTO SWITZERLAND

GOUMOIS, France (On the French-Swiss Frontier), June 20 (AP)—The French army of the eastern Maginot line, at least 50,000 strong, surrendered its arms today to Swiss soldiers and poured into Switzerland.

Two generals and a large number of officers were among those surrendering.

In the late afternoon, with the flow of soldiers across the border continuing at many points, officials estimated 28,000 Allied soldiers had been disarmed and sent to interment points.

These included 16,000 Poles and 12,000 French. Also driven across the frontier were 7800 horses.

The army attempted unsuccessfully last night to blast through the German forces holding the central Jura Gate in order to reach the French army of the south. The failure left no alternative but to enter Switzerland.

The battle was fought in the Maiche Plain within the elbow of the Doubs river, which flows north along the Swiss frontier.

The troops included Spahis, Foreign Legionnaires, Moroccans and several units of Poles, but the major part southern Maginot fortress troops.

By dawn more than 10,000 had entered Switzerland, leaving their arms at the frontier as they streamed across the border.

Many of the soldiers had been fighting continually in the southern Maginot zone for six days. Many were wounded.

The Swiss served tea and coffee to the disarmed men while Red Cross nurses rushed the wounded to hospitals.

Able-bodied troops were taken to central Switzerland for internment.

Swiss frontier posts at mountain passes between La Chaux De Fonds and Porrentruy were disarming the troops.

French officers who entered Switzerland from the Doubs Valley said they were defeated yesterday "not on land, but from the air." They had not a single plane on their side, they said.

STALLED BY FRENCH PEACE APPEAL—Formerly U. S. Army fighting craft, these planes, destined for Canada to be shipped to Europe, are shown at Mitchel Field, L. I., where they are being held pending word from the Allied purchasing commission. It is understood that these planes were to go to France, but now that she has appealed for peace, the British will, no doubt, take them over. Each is equipped with five machine guns and racks for 20 bombs.

Death Beats Salem Husband to Divorce

SALEM, June 20—Unaware of the sudden death of the petitioner, Judge John V. Phelan in Probate Court today granted a divorce to Lester W. Choate of Salem, who on Tuesday was stricken with a fatal heart attack while reading in the Salem Public Library.

Choate, who weighed 200 pounds and was foreman in a Peabody leather factory, had accused his wife, Lucille, of cruel and abusive treatment. During hearing of his petition a month ago, he testified to the numerous beatings he said his wife inflicted.

He was requested to provide additional evidence and Tuesday submitted the evidence and was informed by Judge Phelan a decree would be issued.

Leaving the courthouse, Choate went to the public library and collapsed at a reading table. He was pronounced dead at Salem Hospital.

Not having been informed of the death, Judge Phelan today signed the divorce decree, granting Choate the custody of a son and ordering him to pay alimony of $11 a week. The decree will probably be revoked.

Stock Prices Again Ragged

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP) — Stocks were uneven in today's market as nervous traders awaited news from Europe.

Dealings were negligible from the start and declines of fractions ruled. Steels and motors slipped, while utilities showed mild resistance.

Lacking much support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, Douglas Aircraft, duPont, Loft, Standard Oil of N. J. and Pennsylvania.

Up a shade at one time were Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Westinghouse, Lockheed and N. Y. Central.

Bonds and commodities were irregular. "Free" sterling was lower in terms of the dollar.

Cardinal Sees Grandniece Wed

Cardinal O'Connell officiated today at the wedding of his grandniece, Miss Moira O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. O'Connell of Newton, and William J. Keville, Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. William J. Keville of Belmont, at St. Clement's Church, Back Bay.

Simplicity marked the nuptial services, although attended by distinguished church dignitaries, relatives and invited guests. Msgr. Jeremiah Minehan celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, the Misses Catherine and Eileen O'Connell. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Edmund Keville, as best man.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Cappy and Anne Ryan, Priscilla Phelan and Mrs. Douglas Cairns, and the ushers included Robert Haley, Frederick Drake, Thomas Kimball, Kenneth Cady, Melville Hughes, James H. Hood, Jr., Douglas Cairns and Edwin Parker.

Among the church dignitaries present were Rev. Msgrs. Richard Haberlin, Michael Spillane, Francis Phelan, Richard Quinlan, Robert Barry, and many priests.

Following the church services, a reception was held at the home of the bride. After their wedding trip the couple will live in Montrose st., Newton.

'Hands Off' Note O. K., Nazis Say

BERLIN, June 20 (AP)—Authorized German sources said today that the United States' note invoking the Monroe Doctrine is in accord with the German conception of "America for Americans and Europe for Europeans."

These quarters said they saw "nothing sensational" in the note, delivered to Germany and other belligerents, informing them that the United States will not countenance any change of territory in the Americas from one non-American sovereignty to another.

2348 GET HARVARD HONORS, ALUMNI URGED TO SAVE U.S.

Sons of Harvard were called upon today by one of them to "help save the nation that Harvard helped to make" and to lend every effort toward supporting the doctrine of universal military service in America.

The call was issued by William Yandell Elliott, professor of government at Harvard, at a Harvard alumni mass meeting following conferring of 2348 degrees on undergraduates and students of the graduate schools.

It was Harvard's 289th Commencement and the stately ritual today was much the same as that observed back nearly three centuries ago, with President James B. Conant officiating from the Tudor chair where the first college president, John Harvard, sat in the ancient days.

PROF. ELLIOTT SPEAKER

The alumni mass meeting was held in the new lecture hall under auspices of the National Emergency Committee of the Military Training Camps Ass'n. with Gov. Saltonstall, new president of the alumni, and Lewis W. Douglas, the Roosevelt administration's first budget director, among the many notables present.

"Commencement time 23 years ago," Prof. Elliott told the alumni in his address, "brings back memories to many of us who were getting our degrees in the army. "It brings back to all of that generation memories of a nation that had fully dedicated itself to winning a great war. At that time we armed and manned the United States by universal military service.

"Today we face a far deeper and greater testing of our nation. We cannot do less than answer the test by universal service once more.

"Today we face a destiny, and we may face it alone, in which we must defend ourselves, and all the Americas, against a future that holds only war or the threat of war for years to come.

"That means a large and an expanding army, improvised to meet a terrible need.

"There is no longer any doubt that our way of life stands challenged beyond mistake. Hitler and Mussolini still try to lull us into the fatal apathy of appeasement, or cow us by increasingly open threats.

"There may be heard voices in our own land like that raised in the naive radio flight of Col. Lindbergh, who tries to persuade us to accept these assurances. I do not need to comment on Col. Lindbergh's qualifications for his stratospheric flights into statesmanship.

MUST SPREAD FAITH

"Today we are met in this great testimonial meeting to give proof of our faith in America. We must spread faith by the mouths of Harvard men throughout the nation.

"We are here to lend our support to the leadership and to lend our every effort to realize the vision of a great American, Grenville Clark (chairman of the American Bar Association's bill of rights committee and leader in the new 'Plattsburg Group' movement for national defense).

"If it be humanly, or even superhumanly, possible we must press through Congress at once the universal service act that Lewis Douglas has described.

"We as citizens must show that this country wants immediate military conscription; that we will not repeat the error made by England in putting off so long the day for universal service.

SAVE NATION PLEA

"Many of you have followed the courageous lead of ex-President Lowell, of President Conant and others in urging through the William Allen White committee 'all possible aid to the Allies short of war.'

"For myself, today more than ever, I ask—why short of war?

"By our acts when we go forth from this hall we shall show whether the sons of Harvard can help to save the nation that Harvard helped to make.

"Now, as never in our history, we must 'provide for the common defense' if we are indeed to insure the blessing of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

"That freedom is your heritage, from pioneer forefathers, tough-fibered, self-reliant, with a dream in their eyes and a song on their lips. They were a breed who did not accept defeat."

Harvard's 289th commencement ceremonies began in time-honored custom, with the high sheriff of Middlesex County striking his mace to signify start of the ceremonies.

Traditionally the most impressive of all today's features was the formal academic procession to Sever Quadrangle for the graduation exercises.

Marching in the procession, in academic gowns or formal attire, were Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin of Boston, Mayor Lyons of Cambridge, justices of the Massachusetts courts, church dignitaries, candidates for honorary degrees and other state, municipal Army and Navy officials.

Commencement "parts"—addresses by students graduating with special honors—were delivered by Robert A. Brooks of Needham, Charles D. Aldrich of Wollaston and Ward MacL. Hussey of Chicago.

Charles Francis Adams, former Secretary of the Navy and president of the Harvard board of governors, presented commissions and certificates to graduates of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps in Harvard's department of Naval Science and Tactics.

Other events today at Harvard included a luncheon spread for the alumni in the Old Yard, during which over 50 graduate classes held reunions. This preceded the annual meeting of the Harvard Alumni Association in Sever Quadrangle.

Ladies were barred from the college yard throughout the day, witnessing only the morning and afternoon exercises in Sever Quadrangle.

Isolation Dangers Cited by Hull in Harvard Talk

Lashing at the "lustful forces of this world that would hold men in spiritual degredation by wanton violence and brute force," white-haired, worn-voiced Secy. of State Cardell Hull today emphasized again and again at Harvard commencement that the contributions America has made toward a decent culture can never be preserved by a policy if isolationism.

"Already nation after nation has been crushed into surrender, overrun and enslaved by the exercise of force and fraud and guile; as the dismal darkness descends upon more and more of the earth's surface and its menacing shadow falls blacker and blacker atwart our continent, the very instinct of self preservation bids us beware.

STRESSES BLACK DAYS

"Our American history has not been achieved in isolation from the rest of mankind. It has been part of a vast history—in the old world, as well as the new—which has opened new vistas in the destiny of man. To to the great stream of cultural values, of ideas, of attainments, we have made our contribution; and in turn we have been nourished by it.

"These are black days for the human race. These are ominous days for this country.

"The forces that bring this darkness are not new, and have always sprung from the same source—from godless and soulless lust for power that seeks to hold men in spiritual degredation and to displace peaceful relations among nations by the anarchy of wanton violence.

"Though these forces have not always conquered free men, never before have they flung so powerful a challenge.

"That challenge now is directed against America, against the cherished ideals of most of mankind, against the moral, spiritual, social, political and economic foundations of civilization.

MUST MEET CHALLENGE

"We can meet that challenge if we have, more than materials of defense, faith.

"And we will be faced with that challenge.

"It is folloy to believe in isolation.

"Nor must we fall prey to doubt and fear, in cynicism or self-interest, or in complacency," he continued.

"A responsibility seldom equalled in gravity or danger rests on us. Neglect or delay in assuming it, willingly and fully, would place in mortal danger our way of life and the sacred cause of human freedom.

"Were we to fail we would fail ourselves; we would fail the generations that have preceded us; we would fail toose to come; we would fail mankind; we would fail God.

"We shall not fail."

Hull's speech followed a 10-minute talk with J. P. Morgan in the Harvard yard.

Strong Peace Stand Demanded of G.O.P.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20 (AP)—An emphatic demand that the Republican resolutions committee declare itself flatly against any measures that might lead America into war went into the bulging portfolios of the platform framers today.

It came from a delegation of 26 Republican House members, led by Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York who denounced President Roosevelt's foreign policies and asserted:

"Republicans should stand for keeping America out of war."

F. D. POLICY ASSAILED

Earlier, John L. Lewis, the CIO chieftain, in an extemporaneous outline of labor's wishes from the Republican party, had touched off the day's high spot with a declaration that the President's proposal for compulsory national service was "a fantastic suggestion from a mind in full intellectual retreat."

The House group appeared before the committee late last night in what Rep. Corbett of Pennsylvania said was a "spontaneous" movement.

One after another they assailed administration policies and urged the committee to pull no punches in the forthcoming campaign.

Proclaiming a policy of America for Americans; Europe for Europeans, Fish declared "if we weaken we might as well endorse the Democratic platform. Aid to the Allies short of war is not a peace measure."

"Draft Roosevelt and he'll draft you," Representative Johns of Wisconsin proposed as a slogan.

1918 BILL UNPAID

"There are hokum grabbers running the government now," Representative Bender of Ohio commented.

"Have you forgotten that they haven't paid for what we sold them in the last war?" Representative Bradley of Michigan asked.

Representative Dvorjak of Idaho said liberty and freedom would vanish when America goes to war and his Illinois colleague, Representative Chiperfield, said a strong peace plank would be needed to carry his state.

In an unscheduled appearance before the committee, Col. Robert E. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, described the President's proposal for compulsory service as "insanity and nothing less."

"It would be a tragic blunder," he said, "to call away from their occupations millions of civilians whom we cannot clothe for months or arm for years."

He Cites Dope In Divorce Plea

SALEM, June 20—Because he refused to procure narcotics to satisfy his wife's cravings, she deserted him and is now an inmate in Sherborn reformatory, Robert L. Thompson of Beverly told Judge John A. Costello in Essex Probate Court today, during hearing of his uncontested petition for divorce.

In the same court Mrs. Elizabeth R. LaRochelle of this city petitioned for a divorce from Raymond J. LaRochelle on the grounds of desertion.

"He left me on New Year's Eve, 1937, and later wrote me that he was not coming back because he had fallen in love with someone else," she testified. Both cases were taken under advisement.

LIGHTNING FATAL TO GOLFER

Sunny skies and cooling breezes were enjoyed by New Englanders today, following a lightning storm which caused one fatality and did scattered damage.

Arthur Sisk, 70, of St. Petersburg, Fla., a Natick visitor, was reported recovering at Leonard Morse Hospital, Natick, from burns and shock. He was struck on the Wayland Golf Course by a lightning bolt which killed his brother-in-law, Linwood Gilmore of Morse road, Natick.

Three others, who had been playing golf with them, took refuge from the shower in a small shelter some distance away and did not learn of the tragedy until Sisk, despite his wounds, dragged himself on one hand and leg to where they took shelter nearly a quarter of a mile away.

Firemen worked over Gilmore for an hour with emergency apparatus but failed to revive him.

In the same storm a group of women workers at Norumbega Dormitory of Wellesley College escaped harm as another bolt hit and shattered a flagpole less than four feet from them.

Lightning struck the home of Mary Carroll of Elm et., West Newton, setting the roof ablaze and causing $1000 damage.

New England Speeds War on 5th Column

The drive to rout out fifth columnist in New England moved forward today with new and stringent federal regulaitons on travel between here and Canada.

At the same time, two summer vacationists were held for several hours in Lawrence when their picture-taking activities led to belief they might be spies.

Elsewhere, patriotic citizens joined in the drive by reporting suspicious activities of business men, shipyard workers and foreign-born travellers.

Although investigation showed many of those named proved to be innocent victims, Federal authorities speedily and thoroughly investigated every complaint.

RESTRICT CANADIANS

Boston immigration officials announced that effective July 1, Canadians who are legal residents of the United States, must obtain re-entry permits if they wish to visit Canada and then return here. All others hoping to enter the United States from Canada must have consular visas.

Two Brooklyn men were taken to Lawrence police headquarters after spy-conscious observers noticed they were taking pictures of bridges and passing railroad trains.

A check with business associates in Brooklyn gave them character references and they were allowed to go after surrendering their films.

NAZI GUN SEIZED

At Athol, Police Chief William J. Callahan seized a German-made machine gun of 1917 manufacture. The gun, which had a bolt missing, was to be sold to a resident of Pottsville, Pa., when the authorities stepped in.

Its owner told police that he had bought it as a souvenir at an auction.

Meanwhile, scores of persons reported their suspicions of spies to newspapers.

In spite of the possibility of error the Record and American welcomes news of Fifth Column activities. If our readers knew of such activities they are urged to call the City Editor, Liberty 4000, and report them. They may rest assured the leads will be thoroughly investigated and no harm will be done to innocent persons.

U. S. Cruiser Quincy Reaches Montevideo

MONTEVIDEO, June 20 (AP)—The United States cruiser Quincy arrived in Montevideo harbor today.

FORD BALKS ON ALLIES PLANES

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—William S. Knudson of the National Defense Commission said today that it was made plain to the Ford Motor Co. that part of an order for Rolls Royce airplane engines was for the Allies.

His statement followed one by Henry Ford in Detroit reiterating that Ford plants would produce war materials for defensive purposes only and saying that "we are not doing business with the British government or any other foreign government."

The defense commission made public the statement by Knudsen, former General Motors head, to clarify certain reports concerning manufacture of Rolls Royce aircraft engines by the Ford Motor Company. The Knudsen statement said:

"In negotiations with the Ford Motor Company it was made plain that 60 per cent of the order for Rolls Royce engines was for the Allies and the balance for the United States government.

"I was assured by Mr. Edsel Ford, president, that this arrangement was satisfactory to the Ford Motor Company. No contracts have been signed as yet. They are still in negotiation."

Henry Ford said that his recent stipulation that airplane production by his plant would be for defense purposes only "has been and still is in part of the bargain all the way through."

oppose any recesses longer than three days during the Republican national convention beginning in Philadelphia next Monday. The Senate judiciary committee chairman, Sen. Ashurst (D.) of Arizona, announced that he wanted Congress to remain here and "do the job we have to do."

These developments were thrust before Congress as administration leaders strove to complete a heavy legislative program by Saturday so thats ome kind of recess might be achieved for the Republican convention.

Several measures vital to the $9,000,000,000 defense program were on the agenda, with the Senate agreed to take up the $1,777,000,000 military deficiency bill today. Rows over several administration defense and aid-to-the-Allies policies occupied Senate committees. Vital appropriations bills were piled up behind the defense measures, with the 1941 fiscal year, when new appropriations must be available, beginning a week from next Monday.

Senate approval of the $1,000,000,000 defense tax bill cleared one important hurdle obstructing recesses for the national political conventions.

HEAVY PROFITS TAX

The drastic war-profits tax bill of Sen. Connally (D.) of Texas, was written into the measure as an amendment, but leaders expected it to be tossed out in the impending conference on the legislation to iron out differences between Senate and House versions. The Connally amendment would become effective only in event of war. It would impose sharply-rising war profits taxes on industry.

The tax bill itself would impose a 10 per cent supertax on individual and corporate incomes; lower married persons' individual income tax exemptions from $2500 to $2000 and single persons' exemptions from $1000 to $800, and increase the statutory debt limit by $4,000,000,000.

Other features of the legislation imposed added taxes on moving picture admissions to provide $77,000,000 of revenue annually, (this was a substitute for higher tobacco taxes imposed by the House); added half a cent a gallon to the gasoline tax, and increased a dozen or more excise tax schedules on heavily consumed commodities.

Anzac Thought Shakespeare Was Dickens!

A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, June 20 (AP)—When Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary secretary for dominions, was making his speech here to newly arrived Australian and New Zealand troops, a soldier turned to a bystander and asked:

"Who is that speaking?"

"Shakespeare," he was told.

"Thanks," he replied, "I thought it was Charles Dickens."

Anxiously, the soldiers asked if it were true that the Germans had taken Paris.

"Don't worry," one said on hearing confirmation, "we'll have it back in a fortnight."

U. S. Embassy Aide Weds in Berlin

BERLIN, June 20 (AP)—Jefferson Paterson of Dayton, O., National Cash Degister Co. heir and first secretary of the United States embassy, was married here today to Mary Marvin Breckenridge of New York.

The ceremony in the embassy was performed by the Rev. Stewart Hermann, pastor of the American Church of Berlin.

FRANCE MEETS JAPAN'S DEMAND

TOKYO, June 20 (AP) France had acceded entirely to Japan's demands for halting transportation of war supplies through French Indo-China to China and has agreed to permit Japanese inspectors to enter Indo-China to make sure the traffic ends, the foreign office announced today.

French Ambassador Charles Arsene-Henry told Vice Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani that for many months nothing but trucks of petroleum had been passing into China by way of Indo-China and since June 17 there also had been banned.

The foreign office statement said that the French ambassador told Tani "in view of the repeated representations of the Japanese government, the French government have decided to stop transportation of materials and goods of extremely wide varieties and that they have no objection to Japan sending inspectors to the spot."

British Down 3 Italian Planes

CAIRO, Egypt, June 20 (AP)—Britain's Royal Air Force reported today its planes had met Italian fighters in an air battle of Buq-Buq, Egypt, shooting down three of the Italian planes and severely damaging two others. One British fighter plane was missing.

The clash occurred yesterday, the R. A. F. said, with Italian fighters engaging British bombers and fighters.

FRENCH REPLY ON WAY TO GERMANS

in the dark as to armistice terms Hitler had prepared during his Thursday conference with Mussolini in Munich. The terms were expected to be given to the French envoys with some ceremony.

Meanwhile, the German advance in France was reported continuing without a hitch.

Brest, French Atlantic port which received a large part of the American expeditionary force in 1917-18, fell to the Germans today, the high command announced.

The communique said that the lower Loire river between Nantes, near the mouth, and Tours, had been reached and crossed at some places by the rapidly moving Nazi columns.

200,000 PRISONERS

The communique declared that more than 200,000 prisoners, including General Altmeyer, commander of the French Tenth Army, were captured yesterday.

The high command declared that the German air force "now has begun reprisals against England" and German planes last night "successfully bombed" a nitrogen works at Billingham.

It said 21 enemy planes had been shot down in aerial operations while six German planes were missing.

The communique said one German submarine had sunk an 8000-ton enemy tanker, another U-boat had sunk three vessels in a convoy while German speedboats had destroyed a 4000-ton steamer off the English Channel coast.

NEARING SPANISH BORDER

Authorized circles said there were indications that Nantes and Tours, on the lower Loire, also were in German hands.

In these circles it was commented that unless France capitulated it would be just a matter of a few days before the Germans reached the Spanish border.

Authorized quarters emphasized most emphatically Germany's "disinterest" in what is happening in the Baltic quarters. Stories of German troops movements in East Prussia angered these circles who commented that "it is obviously an attempt to show some sort of mistrust between Germany and the Soviet Union."

Red army troops in the past week occupied Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, the latter along the border of Germany's East Prussia.—Editor's Note.

In Bucharest, Rumanian government circles received reports today a large number of Russian troops are being transferred from the Bessarabian frontier with Rumania to the German-Russian border. These reports also said German motorized columns are being sent to East Prussia, opposite the Baltic states into which Russia recently has sent huge forces in a military occupation.—Editor's Note.

As the German high command announced Nazi warplanes had set fire to oil tanks along the Thames estuary and strafed airfields in England the press sounded warnings to Britain in comments on British night raids over western Germany, during which it was alleged civilians were killed and non-military objects destroyed.

There will be an accounting for these raids soon, the press declared. Authorized commentators referred anew to "a settlement with England."

CHARGE OPEN CITY RAID

DNB, official German news agency, reported early today that British fliers Tuesday night had bombed Recklinghausen — southwest of Muenster—which it termed an "open city." DNB asserted numerous persons were killed by bomb bursts among dwellings there.

Earlier, DNB had reported three nurses injured in bombing of a military hospital near Coblenz, declaring the nurses were helping to bring wounded soldiers into air raid shelters.

Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper, warned English authorities against using "snipers" to defend the British Isles, declaring German forces would use "brutal hardness" in dealing with such persons.

turing and shipping center. Only Paris and Marseille are larger among the republic's cities.

Five German parachutists dropping behind the fighting front during the night were arrested, the French said.

Reports from Lyon, slightly more than 200 miles from Paris and about the same distance from Marseille, Mediterranean port, said the city was calm and public services were functioning.

Lyon police patrolled without arms.

Meanwhile a wide variety of reports circulated as the French government awaited word from Adolf Hitler stating when and where he would disclose to French envoys his price for stopping the war against France.

SET TO SPURN TERMS?

Most of the reports—all without confirmation—seemed to carry in common the implication that France might find the Hitler peace terms too harsh and attempt to fight on, perhaps from French North Africa.

Another report was that the French government had learned the gist of Germany's major terms and found them unacceptable.

It was pointed out that if France should choose to continue the fight from Africa, she and Britain could squeeze Italian Libya.

A large part of the French navy presumably is in the Mediterranean, and in Spain it was said French military planes had been flying in large numbers from France to North Africa.

It was reported today from Geneva, however, French warplanes and troops from North Africa had crossed the Mediterranean to help the French armies in France halt the German drive in the southeast—Editor's Note.

BRITAIN TO JAIL WINDSOR, REPORT

Lions, some 200 miles.—Editor's note.

The Duke had been in the south of France since late May, after leaving his post as liaison officer between the French and British armies. With the Duchess, he was staying at their villa at Cap d'Antibes, near Cannes.

Officials in London denied at that time, however, that he had left the army and, on June 8, said he was visiting French troops on the nearby Italian border and would return shortly to "the headquarters of his mission." This "mission" was not explained.

Exact destination of the duke and whereabouts of the duchess were not known here.

There are several hundred Americans on the Riviera and they have been besieging the consul at Nice for a means to get out of France. The consul has asked a United States warship to take the Americans away. Many have been waiting months for Spanish or Portuguese visas.

The Alps-Maritime frontier with Italy was still quiet.

FROM GERMANY:

The Berlin story carried by International News Service said:

BERLIN, June 20 (INS) The official German news agency DNB, in a dispatch datelined from the Franco-Swiss border, stated today

"It is rumored that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill has ordered the arrest of the Duke of Windsor as soon as he steps on British soil on grounds that the latter adopted an attitude hostile to the British government and king.

"It appears that Windsor quit his post as Franco-British liason officer as a protest against the British expeditionary force's conduct of the battle of Flanders."

FROM ITALY:

The Rome story follows:

ROME, June 20 (INS) — The Italian newspaper Messaggero in a dispatch from Geneva said today that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill "ordered arrest of the Duke of Windsor because he allegedly reclaimed the British throne."

FROM ENGLAND:

The London cable said.

LONDON, June 20 (INS)—British officials today refused to comment on Berlin and Rome rumors that arrest of the Duke of Windsor has been ordered by the government.

"No comment is possible," an authoritative spokesman said.

At the same time authoritative American circles in London declared the Duchess of Windsor, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, is now at Lisbon, Portugal, seeking an opportunity to go to the United States aboard a Pan-American Airways Clipper plane.

Friends of the Windsors ridiculed whispered rumors that the couple are estranged. The rumors have been widespread among arrivals from rFance. But London friends insist the Duke and Duchess are separated only because of the exigencies of war.

They declared that Wallis has long resisted the former British monarch's pleas to return to a safe haven in the United States, where Nazi bombers would hold no threat.

It was only after the situation in France became so uncertain there was no predicting the future status of the country that the American-born duchess was won over to the duke's conviction that she would be better off in her homeland.

London friends insisted that this was the only difference of opinion that existed between the couple, and that it goes no deeper than a wife's natural unwillingness to leave her husband in time of danger.

6 Britons Killed In New Air Raid

cial information could be given during the present delicate stage of Franco-German armistice negotiations.

But competent circles declared:

"It can be taken for granted that events will show there is no need to worry regarding disposition of the French fleet, particularly those larger and more modern units which would be a rich prize for Germany."

At the same time, the Royal Air Force bombed military objectives and communications in the Ruhr, Rhineland and West Germany last night, the air ministry announced.

British bombers successfully attacked German aircraft on the ground at airdromes at Amiens and Rouen, and hangars were set on fire, it added.

SESSION IS SECRET

The raids provided a realistic prelude to a secret session of Parliament this afternoon on the subject of home defense. Prime Minister Winston Churchill and War Minister Anthony Eden were expected to speak.

Parliamentary circles thought David Lloyd George, white-haired Welshman who was prime minister during the World War, would play an important role in the debate, which it was assumed would go into the general war situation and the strategic position resulting concentrated north of Bourg, along from France's request for an armistice.

Last night, 50 members of Parliament, representing all parties, drafted for presentation to the session a program which would enroll the entire population for defense and establish a special ministry to combat fifth column activities.

By dropping bombs in northwest England and Wales, the Germans gave many of the defending forces their first taste of action in the war.

A furious resistance was stirred everywhere. Anti-aircraft fire was loud and long, and little British fighter planes poured streams of machine-gun bullets at the invaders.

Details of casualties and damage done were meager beyond disclosures of the official communique. It was known a man and a woman were killed when a bomb struck a house in a small town.

Armed Bandits Trap, Rob Man in Lynnfield

Three bandits today trapped Harvey Baker in his home in Lynnfield, held him at bay with guns, seized $70 from his pockets, then trussed him with rope and left him on the kitchen floor while they ransacked the house.

Baker struggled vainly with his bonds as the trio seized 40 cigars in a living room cabinet and took an electric shaver from a medicine cabinet.

They then took his keys and drove off in the car he had just left in his garage.

Baker told police he arrived home shortly after midnight and parked the car, entering the darkness of his kitchen in silence.

Suddenly the trio sprung at him as he switched on the light and, with two levelling guns at him, ordered him to remain quiet. He was alone in the house and powerless to attract attention.

State and local police started search for Baker's car but feared it was quickly abandoned by the bandits after their "getaway."

Police recalled a similar house robbery in Medford last Monday when 20-year-old Phyllis Devlin was tied by three men who invaded her Raymond st. house and burglarized it.

In another morning stick-up a dapper bandit robbed William Revis in his drug store in Harold st., Roxbury, of $75. He was masked with a handkerchief and produced a gun.

FUGITIVE GUNMAN CAUGHT

Walter J. "Red" Miller, notorious Chelsea gunman who escaped from Deer Island House of Correction June 8, was captured today in Worcester.

Miller was serving a two-and-a-half-year sentence for conspiracy to break and enter and commit larceny when he escaped.

He had a long police record that began in 1934 when as a Chelsea fireman he was found guilty on 89 indictments charging theft of a total of $9000 from the Chelsea Fireman's Relief Association.

He served time for that and for various other thefts and holdups. In May of 1937 he was taken for a ride in stafford Springs, Ct., shot in the back and dumped into the street

Furnald Will Upset by Jury

The late Thomas E. Furnald, retired Quincy grocer and father of Channing Furnald, former Quincy welfare commissioner, was of unsound mind when he made his will in 1937, a jury decided in Norfolk County Superior Court in Dedham today.

Thomas Furnald, who died last December, left his estate to the of $2000 to his Fourth wife, widow, Ruth, his third wife, and one son, Channing Furnald.

Under the jury decision Channing Furnald son of Furnald by his first wife, will receive two thirds of the estate. Mrs. Ruth Furnald one-third. John D. Smith, attorney for Mrs. Furnald, said he would file a motion for a new trial and ask that the verdict be set aside.

Demands Increase For Aid to Orphans

With the fall of France and the imminent invasion of Britain, New England renews and redoubles its efforts to bring children from the war zones to the safety and security of America.

From every city and town in these six States letters are pouring into the office of the editor of the American.

All go to the Special War Orphans' Bureau opened in Washington by this newspaper in co-operation with the Record and Sunday Advertiser.

They show that there is a demand—a very real and sincere demand—for the endangered boys and girls in the United States.

And they argue convincingly for the removal of immigration law restrictions which are causing the children to suffer needlessly in Europe and for the enaction, if necessary, of new legislation to speed their arrival here.

WRITE IMMEDIATELY

The Editor invites all who want war orphans either for the duration of hostilities or for permanent adoption to write him immediately.

He confidently feels that if enough persons apply for little girls and boys, the government will heed the appeals and admit the children.

Typical letters received today say:

"BROOKLINE—"As I read about the little war orphans, it occurred to me that this was the answer to my prayer. We have a son five years old and, although he has many little friends, he is very lonely at times and wishes for a brother or sister.

"My husband always wanted a little daughter, and would dearly love to adopt one from England, Holland or France.

"We are not wealthy, but we have a wealth of good health, a cheerful home and a large space for a child to romp and play."

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—"My husband and I would be the happiest two people in America if we could have a little baby boy from France. We can provide adequately for the child and will supplement this with an abundance of real love and affection. Truly, we would treasure the baby as our very own."

DERRY, N. H.—"My husband and I would gladly care for three children from France or England as long as the war lasts. We have no little boys and girls of our own, though we have wanted them for years. If the children are parentless we'd willingly adopt them and do everything for them we'd do for own sons and daughters."

JAMAICA PLAIN—"We can very well afford to adopt one of the little unfortunate war orphans. Our preference would be for a baby girl with gold'n hair and blue eyes. But if we cannot have her we'd gladly take a boy."

MILTON—"I don't see how there can be the slightest hesitancy on the part of ayone, official or otherwise, about the bringing of children to the United States. I am Jewish and therefore would like a little Jewish boy or girl. If there are a brother and sister or two sisters, I'd eagerly adopt both.

"What chance will a Jewish child have in France from now on? When I agree to take a child I do it with the knowledge that I am saving the little one from lifelong persecution."

NEWBURGH, Me.—"My husband and I are very sorry for the poor little war orphans and we would like very much to care for one of them, either girl or boy, for the duration of the war. We aren't rich but we can give the child a good comfortable American home."

PORTLAND, Me.—"I have five children of my own—three daughters and two sons. They are all of school age. But I am not so busy or burdened with work and responsibility that I would not care for some other mother's children, particularly a mother who has seen her hopes destroyed in a war like that raging in Europe.

"As soon as the war orphans are brought to this country, five of them may be brought immediately to my home here in Portland. I'll gladly take care of them until it is safe for them to return to their own parents."

U.S. to Give Mexico Credit, Train Army

MEXICO CITY, June 20 (AP)—A high source declared today President Lazaro Cardenas had approved a program which would more than quadruple Mexico's armed forces with the aid of the United States.

This source asserted that within a few weeks a credit of more than $10,000,000 from the United States would be made available to the Mexican government to carry out this expansion under 60 technical experts from the United States army and navy.

Additional millions would be allocated later by the Mexican finance ministry, it was reported.

The United States government was said to be determined that Mexico should not be used as an avenue of invasion by any aggressor power, and it was understood the American credits would be made available on generous terms.

U. S. TRAINED OFFICERS

The American determination was said to have been communicated to President Cardenas before Tuesday's cabinet session, at which universal military training and "other defense measures" were endorsed for submission next month to an extraordinary session of congress.

This defense program was reported on high authority to include:

Increase of the standing army to more than 300,000. The Mexican army now counts 112,000 men, including those on reserve lists.

Increase of the officer corps by approximately 10,000, of whom 1000 would be sent to American army centers for special training.

Preparedness, Peace Is V.F.W. Keynote

An army tried in battle and determined to have peace with preparedness moved into Lynn today for four days of sessions which promise an epochal encampment for Massachusetts Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The gaiety and pageantry marking previous annual encampments will again surround veterans of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and their wives and children.

The convention will run until Sunday night, with drum, band, and drill corps competitions, almost constant athletic contests, and a gigantic parade in which it is expected at least 10,000 will participate, Saturday.

COOTIES PARADE

One of the most colorful features is expected in the annual Cooties Military Parade, to be staged by the fun-making order of the Veterans on Friday night at 10 o'clock.

Colorful bands, floats, veterans and auxiliary organizations, and civic, patriotic and fraternal groups will make up the big Saturday parade, which starts at 2 p.m.

Former State Sen. Edward C. Carroll of South Boston, chairman of the resolutions committee, yesterday was preparing a strong resolution embodying demand of the veterans for impregnable home defenses, and unrelenting drive against Fifth Columnists of any description.

WOULD ADMIT FOLES

Another resolution which will be presented the convention, Carroll said, was submitted by Kosciusko Post, requesting the government to make it possible for 5000 juvenile Polish refugees to be brought to this country.

The convention will close Sunday following election of officers, during which Senior Vice-Commander Edward A. O'Brien will be named department commander without opposition. State Commander Wilfred Jacobs will preside at all sessions.

Sally Stearns Does It Again!

Sally Stearns of Boston and Peterboro, N. H., who likes nothing better than to embarrass the boys, has done it again.

For Sally now has waltzed her way to a Yale degree of M. F. A., the only such to be given at commencement this year at the New Haven Institution. The degree is in commercial and theatrical lighting.

Perhaps the greatest beat Sally ever scored came in 1936 at the expense of a very red-faced rowing crew of Manhattan College.

The pert and ambitious little thespian masqueraded as a boy in the annual crew race between Rollins and Manhattan and occupied the coxswain's post to steer Rollins to victory. Five feet, two inches tall, she weighs 110 pounds.

Unclothed Girl, 19, Captive, Rescued

COATESVILLE, Pa., June 20 (AP)—State Trooper T. F. Klatt said a 19-year-old girl unclothed and weak from hunger, was found "imprisoned" in a second-floor room of an old mansion, a mile north of here.

Too weak to stand, the young woman was brought to a Coatesville hospital. She was named by Klatt as Rosie Belenski. The trooper said that her mother and a brother, with whom she lived, had been taken into custody for questioning.

THEY WERE NEW in the community as their little white cottage, itself. Folks and friends lived far away. But there was a welcome waiting for them—best of welcomes. Voices came—from folks and friends—for there was a telephone in that little cottage. Only a year ago but now there are new friends as well as old. Naturally, as neighbor speaks to neighbor, acquaintanceships ripened into friendships . . . through the friendly service of the telephone.

Swiftly your telephone carries your voice where your thought has travelled, where it's eagerly awaited. Be thoughtful of yourself and others. And, remember, it costs little to call out of town by day . . . and still less evenings after 7 and all day Sunday.

TELEPHONE RESEARCH SAVES $140 A MILE

In 1888, the standard telephone cable contained only 50 pairs of wires and cost between $150 and $160 per pair-mile to install, including the cost of ducts. Modern 2121-pair cables, in the same size ducts, cost only $10 per pair-mile. That is one example of the usefulness of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company.

Harvard fund, additional, $11,337.84.

Estate of Agustus G. Cobb, additional, on account of residuary bequest to establish "The Emory Washburn memorial fund" in the law school, $100,000.

Estate of Gordon McKay, additional to the engineering school, $100,000.

Senator Gibson Dies in Capital

WASHINGTON, June 20 (INS)—Senator Ernest Willard Gibson, 69, a veteran of three American military campaigns, died today leaving behind the request that the Senate—foregoing any adjournment to honor his memory "go right on" bulwarking the nation's defenses in a world seething with a new war.

As the Vermont Senator's family prepared to leave with his remains for the Gibson home in Brattleboro this afternoon, Sergeant-at-Arms Chesley Jurney of the Senate disclosed the Legislator's desire that his death in no way impede congressional action on the $9,000,000,000 defense program.

"Members of the senator's family said that they knew the senator wanted the Senate to go right on through," Jurney said.

The Upper Chamber assembled at noon and recessed for one hour out of respect to Sen. Gibson. Then, following the request of the Vermonter, the Senate reassembled at 1 o'clock to take up the $1,777,000,000 military deficiency bill, providing funds for expansion of the Army and Navy.

Funeral services for Gibson, who served in Congress for more than 18 years—the last six in the Senate—will take place Saturday afternoon at Brattleboro. A committee of senators, to be named later, will attend.

Harvard Splits On Conscription

Rivalling the Commencement Day activities at Harvard were two mass meetings scheduled for this afternoon at which prominent speakers will debate the pros and cons of conscription.

The first meeting, at which Gov. Saltonstall will be principal speaker, is sponsored by the Harvard Alumni Association and will favor conscription.

The opposition meeting is under auspices of the Harvard alumni committee. The speakers will be Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, Dr. Russell Nixon and the Revs. George L. Paine and Lester Hankins.

Conant Warns: Freedom First

James B. Conant, president of Harvard, cautioned against forgetting—"in the heat of our exertions" to build up the nation's fighting forces—that "individual freedom is the cause for which we strive."

In an address before a meeting of alumni, he declared:

"If we scholars yield to the emotional temptation of either defeatism or intolerant rage, we shall have left our proper posts. And our desertion will leave the nation undefended at a vital point.

"For if we fail as guardians of sacred human values, reaction will have triumphed in this hemisphere without a battle. And as a people we shall have lost the only enduring wealth of modern time."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that it's real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent, scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW CLIMAX REACHED IN LOVE OF EX-KING AND WALLY

Duke of Windsor Ordered Arrested Berlin Hears

Three years and a bit more have passed now since the Duke of Windsor, abdicated King of England, and Wally Simpson of Baltimore were married in that June day of 1937, and since then their path of romance has hardly been smooth.

If the once King is arrested, for whatever reason, and the world's most publicized marital alliance between royalty and commoner is riven, it will be only one more in a series of occurrences that must have caused many heartaches to the couple by the seclusion of their own various hearths.

As two ordinary persons of the world, David and Wally might have gone down the years with their roseate romance undimmed by outside incidents and influences.

But David, born to the manor and royal purple, succeeding to the throne after his father's death, resolved a dark conflict in his heart and soul, abdicated and married Wally, the American commoner—and they have struggled to live happily ever since, apparently in vain.

MAY BE EXILE

If the reports that his arrest has been ordered as soon as he steps foot on British soil are based on fact—and the reports hint at treason—the outcome may well be that David and Wally will be long parted.

Should he not return to England, the alternative may be permanent exile from his homeland and the far-flung possessions that he once ruled for a little short of a year—to surrender it all for love.

How much of the fault for the strafing of his marriage and his life since he became husband of the American lies with the Duke of Windsor is questionable.

Although it has never been proved, there have been rumors even since before the start of the present war that Windsor and Wally were pro-Nazi.

There even have been whispers—vague whispers—that Windsor, as Edward VIII, was ousted from the British throne, rather than abdicating for love, because of this alleged pro-Nazism.

The whispers were stronger after a party of rather questionable Britishers, known as "The King's Friends" and headed by the Marquess of Londonderry, openly and avowedly Nazi in their sympathies and actions, acclaimed Windsor for his "pro-Germanism."

DEAL WITH HITLER

That stuck in the minds of the Britishers—and undoubtedly stuck in the minds of the French who recalled that Windsor, always a Communist baiter, was once anti-French during days when the Popular Front was giving so much trouble to the Left. And once the duke, on his own, dickered with Hitler over a mutual assistance pact between Britain and the Reich.

The world wondered early this month when the British War Office announced that the Duke of Windsor had relinquished his post as a liaison officer with the French and British armies in France.

Since the start of the war he had rated almost zero in British Expeditionary Force publicity scores, although he had assumed the rank of major-general as far back as last Sept. 3, the day Britain declared war on Germany.

SNUBS IN FRANCE

At the same time that Windsor gave up his army post, Wally quit her army-auxiliary labors, and there are many who consider this highly significant.

The couple later were reported to have gone to [illegible] residence at Cap d'Antibes and dictated that Wally go into social eclipse for some time while in France.

No less than the upper circles in England have the ultra-aristocratic set in France snubbed Wally and her ex-king.

The old nobility of France, intensely Catholic, holds divorce in horror. Nor could the duke be forgiven for abandoning prerogatives to which he was supposedly bound from birth.

There was one occasion, not too many months ago, when members of ancient French families departed in haste from an American society woman's party when they learned the Windsors were to be guests.

Also it was significant that Britain's prime minister, Winston Churchill, made no move to halt Windsor's leaving the army in the early part of this month—and Churchill is the one man who could have prevented the resignation if he had willed.

Churchill it was who wrote the abdication speech of Edward VIII, and Churchill it was who was counsellor and comforter to the love-ridden monarch during the tense days of December, 1936 climaxed with the abdi-

THE national House of Representatives, by a vote of 80 to 13, has authorized an appropriation of $50,000 for the establishment of a separate weather forecasting station in Boston.

Senatorial and Presidential approval of the measure is confidently expected in Washington.

We hope it will be cheerfully and speedily given, for the station should have been established years ago and it ought not to be further delayed.

Repeatedly, since the devastating hurricane of two years ago, we have pointed out the desirability of abandoning the old system of long-range storm predictions and of substituting something more suited to New England's peculiarly exposed geographical position and diversified climate.

Unheralded frosts, blizzards, gales and rains that have cost our agricultural, recreational and manufacturing industries millions of dollars have emphasized the truth and wisdom of our contention.

Now, with the inauguration of a great national defense program, there is another and equally convincing argument.

Army and Navy fliers must have accurate and up-to-the-minute knowledge of meteorological conditions in the area in which operations are being conducted.

To oblige them to depend on guesses and surmises made five or six hundred miles away from New England would be risky and dangerous.

We sincerely hope the approaching summer will see the Boston station become a reality.

THE ARMY QUOTA for New England has been reduced from 1143 to 787, a decrease of 356 men.

The War Department makes no attempt to conceal the reason. Frankly, few have responded to the call for volunteers. In fact, despite the intensive activity which has been in progress since May 22, only 339 have enlisted.

Major-General James A. Woodruff, commanding the First Corps Area, now says:

"It is true that the regular army offers an attractive career, but we must now, in addition, look upon our recruiting drive as a patriotic measure for the national defense, and in particular, the defense of New England. I cannot stress too much the necessity for enlisting now."

Of course, the War Department's and Major Woodruff's problem is not a new one. Actually, it is a repetition of the situation in 1917, before America's entry into the World War.

Then, the appeal for volunteers brought only 86,000 enlistments during the first month, when the government was seeking to raise an army of 3,500,000.

General Hugh S. Johnson, now a columnist then a cavalry captain, suggested conscription, and his recommendation was adopted.

Better would be a system of universal military training patterned after Switzerland's sensible, democratic and practical plan which recognizes that each citizen has a duty to perform and treats everybody alike.

MASSACHUSETTS MOTORISTS, burdened with confiscatory taxation and oppressed by compulsory insurance legislation, do not wish to be presumed to be insane.

Thousands, therefore, will applaud Registrar Frank A. Goodwin's blunt answer to Dr. Lowell S. Selling of Detroit, who addressed the American Medical Association the other day and suggested mental tests for all automobile operators on the ground that such examinations would eliminate so-called "nut" drivers.

Says Mr. Goodwin:

"I haven't any doubt but that out of a million drivers in Massachusetts there are tens of thousands who might be called mentally unfit to operate a car.

"But the big question is how are we going to know it? I have always been under the impression that in proportion to their number there are as many queer psychiatrists as there are average people.

"Before we permit the psychiatrists to operate on the general public I am sure we would have to get somebody to examine the psychiatrists."

"TOO MANY ARE DYING from appendicitis in the United States," says Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company official.

Furthermore, Dr. Armstrong believes that the observance of a simple three-point rule would save at least 50 per cent of the more than 15,000 Americans who die annually from this cause.

In case of a stomach-ache, which may turn out to be an attack of appendicitis, he says to play safe and—

Call a doctor.

Remain quiet and apply an ice bag to the abdomen.

And refrain from taking laxatives, food and other home remedies.

We agree with Dr. Armstrong. Statistics and experience support his recommendations.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, June 20—Tuesday morning, at the invitation of Mrs. Pearl Buck, I signed a book which is to be sent to the women of China as a tribute for the way in which they have carried on during these past years.

Women in every country are being forced to show qualities of heroism and endurance which in recent years of civilization they have hardly been called upon to develop.

Somehow or other, the inevitable is always met and the march of force at the moment seems to have an inevitable ending of oppression and sorrow for those who fall beneath its power, and the victims show an unexpected kind of stoic strength.

AFTER my broadcast Tuesday, we went directly to the Ethical Culture School at Fieldston, where some scenes from plays were given by high school students. These plays were written and produced by the youngsters themselves. They did their own research.

The object was the development of a better understanding and more real fellowship between the representatives of different races and cultures. In their plays the young people touched on all the questions which confront their elders

When the plays were over, Professor Lindeman of the new school for social research led a panel up on the stage to discuss the value of these productions.

Half of the panel consisted of teachers who had assisted their students, either as part of the curriculum or as extra-curricula activities, in producing these plays.

The rest of us were lay people, though, as I think it over, I was the only genuine lay person there, everybody else could claim to be an expert in some field.

Not only the panel, but the audience and the actors took part in the discussion. I am more and more impressed with the ability developed in high school students to express themselves and to have definite views of their own based on reasons which they can explain.

WE reached Hyde Park at about 6 o'clock and found our only guest was a young artist, Mr. Mitchell Jamieson, who has been doing some water color sketches of the countryside Soon after we arrived, Lieut. Cole, who brought up some of our horses yesterday, appeared to spend the night and we had a very pleasant evening.

Everyone went to bed early. The van with the horses had been loaded at 3:30 a. m., and actually had left Fort Meyer, Va., 4 a. m. and those who came with it were sleepy.

The rest of us were equally ready for the peace and quiet of a long country night. My sleeping porch seemed particularly attractive and the frog chorus put me to sleep.

Yesterday morning I went over to the big house to see my mother-in-law, only to find that she is not yet back from New York City. I had lunch with Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., and then returned to New York City for a few hours to hold a meeting of various organizations interested in the question of bringing refugee children to this country.

On The Side -:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

REMEMBER that song "Down on the Farm?" If you do, let me know the words. Am down on the farm right now among the bees, birds, sheep, cows, flowers, horses and chickens. Until I get the words of "Down on the Farm?" I am going to sing "Home on the Range" while shaving. Will have to adapt this to the New Jersey countryside. No deer and antelope play in this vicinity. The "Where the skies are not cloudy all day" line is all right. But the "Where never is heard a discouraging word" will have to be changed to "hardly ever." Because when the taxi driver after taking you less than a mile says "One dollar, please," that constitutes some very discouraging words. And, Oh lady, those summer resort grocery bills! Am not to be on the farm all the time. I ride into town daily except Saturday and Sunday on the train and Sandy Hook boat. That's not so hard to take.

JUST WALKED UP to look at the swimming pool at the Beach Club. It's a marvelous place to swim, but there are always a couple of hundred kibitzers sitting in the chairs surrounding the pool. As I looked at this group looking at the swimmers once more there came to my mind that disconcerting advertising line: "Have you thought how you will look in a bathing suit." Well, at that, I won't look so badly if I take off 15 pounds. Maybe I will have prunes or rhubarb for desert tonight instead of strawberries and ice cream.

ONCE WORKED on a farm for weeks but could never learn to milk a cow. They put me to work helping build stone walls. Boy, is that hard labor? I hate work. I am only working now to save up enough money to buy a ranch and a small stable of selling platers . . . In Monmouth County, N. J., Molly Pitcher has a hotel named after her. Seems reasonable. Wasn't it in the Battle of Monmouth in the Revolution that Molly took charge of that cannon? Her real name was Mary Ludwig Hays McCauley. She used to carry water to the soldiers in a pitcher. A sort of female Gunga Din. They nicknamed her Molly Pitcher. She was married twice, smoked and chewed tobacco and swore like a trooper. I don't want to deceive the clients of this department and pose as a learned historian. I read all this in a folder I got in a gas station at Perth Amboy, N. J.

ROOSEVELT SON GETS PROMOTION

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 20—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who received his law degree last week, at the same time also received a commission in the U. S. Naval Reserves. Until last week the President's son was a common ensign in the reserves, and the promotion came to him in the customary course of events, after he had completed the required studies . . . Roosevelt came to New York a few days ago and conferred with Junius Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, concerning naval affairs. Their talk was in connection with plans for an augmented navy, consisting of large, fast pleasure yachts which might be converted for aiding the Navy.

MADELEINE CARROLL, who left on the Clipper last week, went straight to Bordeaux, after disembarking in Lisbon. Noel Coward, who was a passenger on the same flight, was stranded in Lisbon until Sunday—when he was able to proceed to London . . . He had hoped to return to Paris, where he had leased an apartment in the Place Vendome for seven years. "I suppose," the gallant Coward said, "it was a bit foolish—that seven-year lease" . . . Clifton Webb, who went to the airport to see Coward off, told him of the dressing room he had occupied in the Selwyn Theater in Chicago. On the wall of that room Webb found a penciled notation, in Noel's handwriting, written after "The Vortex" had flopped there. The notation read: "Noel Coward died here."

SOME FOLKS, in explaining the reason for Alexander Woollcott's illness, ascribed his condition to careless dieting. Woollcott, however, confesses that food had nothing to do with it—that his ailment resulted from an attempt to insert into the script of "The Man Who Came To Dinner" some histrionics which neither the authors nor the director ever had imagined . . . "I suddenly decided to be coy," said Woollcott. And in the last act, where the villainess is lured into an Egyptian mummy case, Alec decided that he should evince his pleasure by leaving the wheel chair—and dancing a tchardarsh.

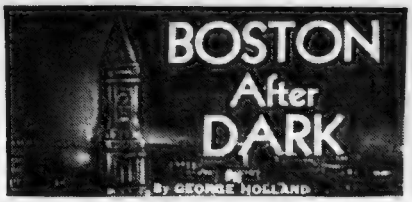
VILMA EBSEN, while on tour, saw a musical comedy which had been presented on Broadway last year. "How'd you like the show's book?" Vilma was asked—and she answered: "It was the kind of a book which, when finally opened, proves to be a cigarette case" . . . Vilma's husband, Bobby Dolan—who conducts the orchestra at "Louisiana Purchase"—suffered a throat affliction recently, and has been warned not to use his voice for two weeks.



IF—AND WHAT AN IF—BUT, ANYWAY, IF Arturo Godoy beats Joe Louis tonight, a rival boxing club to Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club will come into being at once, and Jack Dempsey will be the "front" . . . Chief instigator of the plot to unseat Jacobs from his throne as boxing king is Al (The Vest) Weill . . . Weill has posted a $25,000 bond which is supposed to assure Louis a return bout in September if—and there's that two-letter word again—Godoy wins . . . But Weill won't risk Godoy's title—(are you laughing?) . . . The 25 one- and three-zero notes will be forfeited, while the Chilean makes some personal appearances of sufficient extent to prmit Manager Weill enough time to unearth some willing set-ups.

DEMPSEY, BY THE WAY, LOST HIS SECOND important decision of 1940 when a court gave a partner of Jack's control of the Eighth Avenue restaurant which bears Dempsey's name . . . The previous Dempsey loss was his wife, Hannah Williams, and Broadway believes there is no chance for a reconciliation . . . The former champ's sportsmanship is getting a severe test all-around these days, and much of Broadway's sympathy is with him . . . (If that means much.)

AN ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT CASE is that of Michael Todd, to whom Boston is a second home . . . It was here Michael met what might have proved a Waterloo when he sustained an expensive flop in a show entitled "The Man From Cairo" . . . But Michael borrowed enough money to get his actors out of town, and his rebound has been sensational . . . He is the No. 1 producer of the 1940 World's Fair, in New York, supplanting Billy Rose . . . Michael owns and operates four successful Fair concessions . . . They are "Gay New Orleans," "Streets of Paris," "Dancing Campus" and "Op'ry House" . . . Comes now to him an unusual honor that has national meaning . . . Mr. Todd has been engaged to "streamline" the Ringling circus.

THE PROFESSIONAL BROADWAY PRODUCING TOUCH is desired in making The Big Show more entertaining . . . Technical matters such as lighting and routining the immense carnival will get special attention . . . Mr. Todd is about to set out on a three-week trip with the circus, and in that time he is expected to get in enough licks to make his friend, John Ringling North, a co-boss of the circus, much happier . . . The late Bob Gardner's hotel venture, (the former Flamingo in Massachusetts avenue), will remain in the family . . . Myra G. Gardner, Bob's widow, has been elected president and director and will become resident manager of the hotel . . . She is not a stranger to the business.

EXCLUSIVE: Ben Cutler's orchestra will succeed Enric Madriguera's at the Ritz Roof beginning next Wednesday . . . The lineup of bands hired to follow Maestro Cutler is Emil Coleman, Will Bradley and Tommy Dorsey . . . The Dorsey booking includes options which can keep the unit in town for a full month, (business being good enough) . . . It begins to appear that Benny Goodman will miss a season at the Ritz, and if this proves

MARGARET SULLAVAN MAY GET ROLE

By Harriet Parsons

Margaret Sullavan

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—Not surprising that Paramount should see in their blonde Madeleine Carroll's much publicized European adventure a perfect future screen vehicle for her. Studio has assigned Writers Alan Lemay and Jesse Lasky, Jr., to develop a story about a beauteous film star stranded in the midst of a foreign war—only the locale will be Asia instead of Europe. Bill Pine, C. B. DeMille's right hand man, will produce and it'll be his first on his own. It's now extremely unlikely that Madeleine will be back in time to do "Virginia," but her studio is going ahead confidently with future plans for her. "There's Always Juliet" is still scheduled as a Carroll vehicle and will precede the story based on her own experiences.

Chances are that Margaret Sullavan will shortly be announced to replace Madeleine in "Virginia." If, however, Para cannot make a deal with Sullavan the role will probably be handed to their own promising starlet, Ellen Drew.

He'll board the New York-bound Clipper in Lisbon Saturday and arrive in Hollywood next week to view a rough cut of "Thief of Bagdad" and formulate future production plans; Ruth Hussey to Catalina for some loafing. Also Pat Morrison and her ma; Geraldine Fitzgerald at the Beverly Derby with husband Edward Lindsay-Hogg who just arrived in town.

DOROTHY LAMOUR goes on a jaunt to Del Monte before starting "Moon Over Burma." And by the way, wonder if Greg Bautzer has told Dottie about those New York dates with Louise Stanley; fin has such a hold on Jack Holt he won't even be able to attend the Northridge Horse Show, which he was scheduled to run; excitement when Billy Halop came into La Conga with a good looking blonde was anti-climaxed by the discovery that it was his sis, Florence, with a new dye job.

ALAN CURTIS, usually Ilona Massey's squire, was at Pirate's Den with a beauteous brunette whose name he wouldn't give out. Mrs. Ida Mayer Cummings has been installed as president of the junior auxiliary of the Jewish Home for the Aged.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THEY CROSSED the street together, man and dog. On this morning, as on countless others, they passed the grocery store half way down the block. Chick, the store-keeper, was standing in the doorway as usual.

"Hello Mister Johnson," he said, "A little late this morning aren't you?"

Johnson smiled at him as he hurried past.

"Yes, Chick. That's why I can't stop for a minute."

Chick shouted at Jerry, the dog, and received a brief glance as Jerry continued along at his master's side.

As he watched them go, Chick thought back over all he knew of this new addition to the neighborhood. Three months before, Johnson had moved into the apartment house across the street. He had no family, living all alone except for Jerry.

EVERY morning about eight-thirty, he came out of the apartment with Jerry on a leash, crossed to the other side, and walked briskly on down the street.

The neighbors knew very little about him except that his name was Johnson and he led a very quiet life.

Chick thought all this as he watched them striding along without a care in the world. The press of business soon drew him away from the door however, and drove thoughts of Johnson out of his mind.

He did not see the small truck that drew up in front of Johnson's apartment a few hours later. Nor did he see Johnson get out with another man in a uniform who was carrying Jerry.

It came as a total surprise to Chick the next morning to see Johnson walking hesitantly along the other side of the street without Jerry.

"GOOD MORNING Mister Johnson," he sang out. Johnson stopped and then called across, "Will you come over here Chick, for a moment please?"

Chick came over smiling. "You are certainly becoming fashionable, carrying a cane now."

Johnson was not smiling. "Jerry was hit by a car and died last night. Will you help me across the street?"

It was then that Chick noticed that the cane was all white.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I WENT to see the film version of "Grapes of Wrath" the other night, having long since read and protested against the book. Not that I don't realize the misery of that tragic trek, but why blame California for that misery? Or why treat the labor agitation in California as a unique phenomenon?

Many of the homeless in that same exodus had previously visited Arkansas and Louisiana and there received as little as 16 cents per day; yet no one started a national uproar over Arkansas or Louisiana.

However, there's no denying that, at heart, both film and book are great social documents and if they awaken us to the plight of our underprivileged brothers, we must be grateful for them, no matter whose toes they step on.

THE JOADS were the symbol of small, inefficient, individual land owners. The day of such individual holdings is almost over, just as the day of the large, ruthless, private monopoly is almost done. Public opinion has rolled as ruthlessly over such selfish monopoly as the big caterpillar tractor rolled over the old Joad shack.

That "cat"—that regiment of "cats"—was inevitable. No single individual can any longer work one of those vast western holdings. It takes many men.

The young "cat" driver tried to make Pa Joad see all this, but Pa Joad wouldn't see. He was as stubborn about accepting a new order of things as some pampered old plutocrat on Park Avenue would be. And therein lies another surprising discovery.

It's a long distance from a penthouse on Park Avenue to a wretched shack in the Dust Bowl—but often there's no difference at all between the mental attitudes of the two men who inhabit them!

Rich man and poor man can be equally stubborn, stupid and selfish when it comes to blocking the wheels of progress. And can pay for it equally in loss, loneliness and blind resentment.

A NEW ERA has come: there is nothing abnormal about its coming. As the cave man passed from his cave . . . as the tent-dweller moved into a house . . . so the old hand-workers must lay their simple tools aside and accept the machine age with all its complexities. It is inevitable.

A new era has come. And all those who can't or won't move with it are doomed to be Joads for keeps.

Frances O'Keefe Weds

One of the week's outstanding weddings took place yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's rectory in Lynn . . . where Frances Taylor O'Keefe . . . daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Scott O'Keefe . . . became the bride of John Peter Cowden of San Francisco.

The three o'clock ceremony was followed by a reception at the O'Keefe home in Ocean st.

The former Miss O'Keefe was a most attractive bride in her mother's wedding gown . . . fashioned with a snug bodice of Brussells lace and full ruffled silk net skirt over heavy white silk. She wore her great-grandmother's bridal veil of rare old Spanish lace, and carried white orchids.

The two attendants . . . Mary Evans O'Keefe . . . sister of the bride . . . and Emily Whittredge . . . both of Lynn . . . were frocked alike in French blue marquisette. In place of hats they wore wreaths of peach-colored flowers streamered in blue velvet.

Richard Vaughan of New York was Mr. Cowden's best man, and Edward Scott O'Keefe, Jr., ushered.

The bride is a graduate of Cambridge Country Day and Connecticut College, class of '39. She studied last year at Miss Sicker's School of Design. The bridegroom . . . son of the late Stanley Cowden and Mrs. Cowden of San Francisco . . . was graduated from the University of California in 1938.

Desserts Easy To Prepare

By MARTHA LEE

WHAT TO HAVE for dessert during warm weather can really be quite a problem. Somehow, the old standbys lose their appeal once spring has rolled around. We want something different, something new and colorful.

Frozen desserts and sherbets are just the thing to lend a fresh touch to spring and summer menus. The following recipes are delicious and particularly easy to prepare.

RASPBERRY GRAPE FREEZE

1 pint raspberries (fresh or quick frozen)
¼ cup grape juice
¾ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¾ cup cream
1 egg white

Simmer raspberries and grape juice together for two minutes. Strain to remove seeds. Add sugar, salt, lemon juice. Freeze until mushy. Remove to chilled bowl, beat until foamy. Fold in cream, whipped with egg white. Freeze until firm, stirring every 30 minutes. Makes ¾ quart.

CONCORD SHERBET

1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 tsp. gelatin
2 tbsp. water
Juice 2 lemons
Rind 1 lemon, grated
2 cups grape juice
1 egg white

Combine water and sugar in a saucepan. Stir over heat until sugar dissolves. Boil three minutes. Soak gelatin in water. Add to hot syrup. Stir until dissolved. Add lemon rind and juice, then grape juice. Stir well. Chill. Beat egg white stiff and fold into the chilled mixture. Freeze. Stir every 30 minutes until mixture holds its shape. Makes about one quart.

PINEAPPLE SHERBET

20 marshmallows
1 cup unsweetened pineapple
1-3 cup water
2 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Combine marshmallows, pineapple juice and water in op of double boiler, and heat until marshmallows are melted. Cool. Add lemon juice and 1 teaspoon sugar. Pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze to mush. Combine remaining sugar, salt, and stiffly beaten egg whites. Stir the partly frozen sherbet into this mixture and return to freezing tray. Stir when mixture has frozen to a mush. Continue freezing until frozen to desired consistency. Makes 6 small servings.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY WHIP

1 cup strawberries
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup water
½ tsp. baking powder
Salt
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 cup cream, whipped

Wash, hull and crush strawberries. Combine sugar, water, baking powder, and salt in a saucepan. Cook until it spins a fine thread. Pour mixture slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until cool. Fold in strawberries and cream. Pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze to desired consistency. Serve in sherbet glasses garnished with strawberries. Makes 6 servings.

Hand-Blocked Cottons

By ANNICE BRINK

PEASANT INFFLUENCES are nothing new in the life of the style-conscious . . . but some hand-blocked cottons are in town which are so frankly, delightfully colorful that they out-blaze anything we've ever seen and are surely new to any one of us.

They're individual pieces designed and executed by one Magda Polinalov . . . and the colors and the designs are incredible. They have an exhuberance and vitality, and a strength of tone that we've never seen before.

There are smocks, and beach or sports or evening-coat over-cottons types of jackets, and sports frocks, and even evening frocks that will be the most outstanding thing within miles, wherever you might appear in them!

The cotton fabrics used are full-bodied and almost heavy, with a stunning quality to them when they're flared, because they stand out like a peasant girl's skirts.

Designs, many of them, might have come from the manor house or the castles with which peasants were familiar . . . crowns, and strange Byzantine birds, and immense leaf and floral scrolls. Colors are vibrant greens, tobacco browns, and a certain crudely brilliant pink which is much like Schiaparelli's Shocking, but more intense. This is used with great effect in a short, stiff cotton jacket of the crude pink with a lining of tobacco brown.

And there's a wonderful natural-toned smock, with a round shoulder yoke, and yards of fullness flaring out, all covered with a rippling strong design in vivid green.

You Can Be Beautiful

Unique Scalp Promade's Results Are Amazing

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN they cut and stack the hay in midsummer . . . will your hair have a lot more in common with the haystack than you'd relish? It won't if you establish one of the simplest possible rehabilitating routines with a marvel-inspired hair pomade.

So great have been the [illegible] growing accomplishments of this scalp pomade that we hesitate to quote them . . . they'd seem like exaggeration, but the proof is in the files of the hair specialists who contrived it.

As a result of its genuinely great qualities it's been introduced in several great universities and among athletic organizations to combat the bad effects of too many showers pelting on short hair and to save the heads of future big business men.

Special note to the gals: If you're having after-permanent trouble rub a bit of the pomade into the ends to give them sparkle and new life.

Undoubtedly its secret of [illegible] rests with its formula, which [illegible] close as science can get to the substances in the sebaceous glands which feed the hair to strong, new growth.

And it has brought forward men take notice . . . many a [illegible] ping hairline, anchoring the [illegible] ning border with a fresh [illegible] rurge of new hair.

'THE MORTAL STORM' HELD ANOTHER WEEK AT LOEW'S

Nazism's Birth Vividly Told

"The Mortal Storm," most effective anti-Nazi picture to date, is doing excellent business at Loew's twin houses where it is being held over a second week at the State and Orpheum.

Based on Phyllis Bottome's novel of the same name it has the timeliness and exciting quality of the latest news flashes from the German-Italian conference. It is a challenge to the contention of Columnist Jimmy Fidler and others that films should be purely entertainment, for it is so perfect a blend of entertainment and democratic preachment.

The locale is Germany, 1933, when the erstwhile paperhanger had just become chancellor. Step by step it is shown how Nazi regimentation erases happiness from the lives of non-Aryan Prof. Frank Morgan's home. His step-sons, Robert Stack and William A Orr, turn storm troopers, become alienated from their family. They and their uniformed comrades set upon James Stewart because he refuses to become indoctrinated by the Nazi credo. Finally, their sister, Margaret Sullavan, forced to flee Germany because of her anti-Nazi leanings, is fatally shot as she and Stewart reach Austria's friendly border.

"The Mortal Storm" answers the question of how it happened there and why it shouldn't happen here. It is a forthright, vivid eye-opener that pulls no punches.

Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, as the young sweethearts who resist the Nazi influence, are believable and appealing. Morgan's professor is a finely conceived characterization, as is Madame Marie Ouspenskaya's wise and tender peasant woman.

The companion feature is Ritzo's "Phantom Raiders," with Walter Pidgeon and Florence Rice.

STORM TROOPER—Robert Young kisses are obviously welcomed by Margaret Sullavan in "Mortal Storm," held on a second week at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Sanroma Soloist at Pops

Beethoven's Choral Fantasia, with Piano Solo—a piece not heard in Boston for many years, will be presented at the Pop concert, by Arthur Fiedler, in Symphony Hall tonight.

Jesus Maria Sanroma will be the soloist in this and in "The Rio Grande" of Constant Lambert. There will be vocal soloists in the latter piece, and the Cecilia Society Chorus in both. The program follows:

"Le Coq d'Or," Wedding March — Rimsky-Korsakov
Overture to "William Tell" — Rossini
Turkish March — Mozart
"Carmen" Fantasia — Bizet
Fantasia for Piano, Chorus, and Orchestra, Op. 80 — Beethoven
Piano: Jesus Maria Sanroma
"The Rio Grande," for Chorus, Orchestra and Solo Piano — Lambert
(Poem by Sacheverell Sitwell)
Piano: Jesus Maria Sanroma
Contralto: Marie Murray
Tenor: Wesley Baynton
Chorus from the Cecilia Society, Arthur Fiedler, Conductor.

"Scenes from the Vienna Woods," Waltzes — Strauss
Overture Matriculates — Alec Templeton
Ninth Dance from "La Vida Breve" — deFalla

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—Few stars, let alone feature players, could strike for more dough these days and get it. One of the few is Lynne Overman whose swell clowning has saved many an otherwise feeble flicker.

Lynne was on the verge of a split with Paramount when the studio came through with a new deal which brought smiles to his quizzical phizz. Now he belongs to Para for another year and among his assignments are roles in "There's Magic in Music" and "Shepherd of the Hills."

This and that: Those two be-whiskered Soviet glamor boys from "Ninotchka," Sig Rumann and Felix Bressart, will pair up again in "Bittersweet," next MacDonald-Eddy starrer. They'll be a couple of comic cafe owners—which is what they were in the last sequence of "Ninotchka."

Joy Hodges just finished with "Margie" at Universal, reports at Monogram today for the femme lead in Frankie Darro's "All Around the Town." Soon as she's through she'll go to Chicago for a week of personal appearances with Jimmy Dunn, replacing Mary Carlisle who canceled out on the tour. Only for a week, though, because she's promised to join bridegroom Gil Doorley in a Canadian vacation.

Heaven and Warners willing, Ann Sheridan will take a three-month vacation in the high Sierras as soon as she completes "City for Conquest." She's still not completely over that siege of makeup poisoning . . . John Stone, who produced the Charlie Chan series for eight years, is leaving 20th Century-Fox and will produce independently. After a rest in Mexico he'll start work on "The World Goes Sat on a Stone."

Tallulah Bankhead Marblehead Bound

Tallulah Bankhead, seen here last winter in Lillian Hellman's Broadway success, "The Little Foxes," will be a guest star at Marblehead the week of August 19 when she will appear with the North Shore Players in "The Second Mrs Tanqueray." The Players will open their eight week season July 1 with Ethel Barrymore in "The School for Scandal."

Otto Preminger, who created the role of consul as well as directed the original Broadway production, will play the same role in "Margin for Error," the second week's offering.

JOY HODGES starts a new film today, "All Around The Town," and then goes to Chicago for stage appearances.

Hit at Uptown

Happily air-cooled for its newest summer attraction, the Uptown tomorrow will offer "Typhoon," co-starring Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston a la sarongs, and "Alias the Deacon," with Bob Burns, Peggy Moran and Mischa Auer.

'Torrid Zone' Moves Friday To Scollay and Modern

"Torrid Zone," the James Cagney-Ann Sheridan screen sizzler, will top the Scollay and Modern film bill, starting tomorrow.

Cagney and the girl who put the S A in South America battle like two redheads and are expected to battle through most of the picture's footage. Nor is their dialogue blue-penciled. Pat O'Brien, no cuspat milquetoast himself, every now and then curbs his own hot temper to act as referee for these fugitives from the states. But eventually, Cagney, sneering her a sneer as he mutters 'You and your 11 carat oomph" grabs his Annie and proves he loved her all the time.

The second feature, "The House Across the Bay," features Joan Bennett, George Raft, Walter Pidgeon, Gladys George and Lloyd Nolan.

'Typhoon' Coming To Olympia Screen

"Typhoon," Paramount's technicolored adventure-thriller with Dorothy Lamour, Robert Preston and Lynne Overman, and "'Til We Meet Again," Warner's romantic drama open a week's run at Washington St. Olympia, starting Saturday.

Love And Marriage

Strict Parents Her Excuse

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, 34 years old, and in love with a girl of 20. Upon several occasions I have met her by chance and after persistent persuasions she has allowed me to take her home. Since then she has avoided me.

I asked her the other day if I could come to her home and after several excuses she finally confessed that her parents were strongly opposed to her going with anyone, and as long as she was staying with them, she thought it best for me not to cause any serious trouble between her and her family.

Do you think I should continue seeing her outside of her home, if she will go? Or do you think that was only an excuse to avoid having a date with me?

TERRY.

It's hard to say whether the young lady was just stringing you along when she said her parents were the strict kind who didn't want her to receive attention from anyone. Unfortunately, there are such parents, and their daughters usually elope with the first undesirable who crosses their paths.

Until you get a little more light on the situation why don't you continue to meet the young lady accidentally, or at least until you find out if she has any interest in you. A difference of 14 years in your ages may be a contributing factor to her attitude.

Miss Dalton Newton Bride

Urns of lilies and white phlox and tall candelabras flanked a background of smilax for the marriage ceremony at which Meralyn Breck Dalton became the bride of Harry Walker O'Connor last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dalton of West Newton.

Rev. Herbert Hitchens of the Unitarian Church, West Newton, performed the ceremony, and the bride's sister, Nadylis, was her only attendant. The bride carried a bouquet of white delphinium, babies breath and orchids with her gown of ivory satin trimmed with family lace. The maid of honor's pink and blue marquisette redingote gown was enhanced by a bouquet of Joanna Hill roses and larkspur.

Enrique Eversum of Alpine, N. J., was best man. Mr. O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O'Connor of Laurelton, L. I., will take his bride to New York to live, following a honeymoon trip to Canada.

The bride graduated from Beaver Country Day School and attended Mt. Vernon Junior College and the Jungy School of Music. She made her debut in the 1937-38 season.

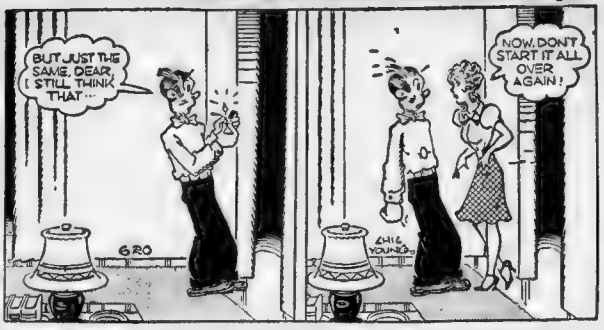
True Love Never Runs Smoothly



The Champ

By Shane O'Niell

ANYBODY who knew the Champ would tell you that he was a very sour guy—especially where the girls were concerned. The sports writers made very good copy of that. They said he was afraid it might cost a nickel—that he wasn't human—that his fighting showed it, because he fought like a machine, a well-oiled 40-year-old machine, battered on the outside, but functioning with effortless precision.

That, you see, was another thing that got their goat. They didn't like such an "old" man up there for so long. They explained it by saying that there was no decent talent coming up.

To all of which the Champ grunted, "The more they pan, the bigger the gates. And that's okay with me."

His manager, Izzy Weintraub, nodded owlish agreement.

"Funny, what seems they don't like most is on account of you lay off the dames. Other fighters they yell a for liking dames. You, it is different."

A grim smiles passed the lips of the Champ. Nobody, not even Izzy Weintraub, could look back to the 18-year-old with lightning in both fists, and a serious devotion to his work in the ring. Too serious for the girl of his own age, who had thought marrying a prize fighter would be glamorous, and who lived to regret it. Who disappeared one rainy April night, taking their 6-month-old son with her. No—nobody knew about that. None of the sports writers knew how a certain—and very heavy percentage of the Champ's take went to a definite purpose.

"Yeah," the Champ said, "me it is different. There won't be much more time for me—I'm beginning to slow up, and I know it. I need more dough—a lot of it, and that means fights—soon."

The manager shook his head.

"So he needs more dough, already?" he mocked. "So what about all the jack you made these past 15 years? I don't see how it went, unless maybe the banks you like been robbed."

"I need more dough," the champ repeated. "I do the fighting. You get the fights. Dig one up."

TOO GOOD!

And that was how the fight with Kid O'Malley was rigged. Izzy had no choice. He had a nice right. But he wasn't right-hand crazy. He could take it—and he hadn't yet taken too much. He had a good following.

"He's a good kid," Izzy murmured dubiously, "maybe—"

"Maybe a little too good? That what you mean, Izzy? You think you might lose your meal ticket, hey?"

Izzy's voluble protestations rattled on for a while before he spoke again.

"Not this one, Izzy. Maybe the next, or the one after it, but not yet. Get busy and make the training arrangements."

The sportswriters were in their glory. This one was a natural. You know, the keen young Apollo versus the hairy caveman stuff. They covered both camps, and a good number of them gave the Kid a chance, better than a chance. He looked better every day, and the Champ, whose training routine never varied from its monotony, was not impressive.

The Cast of Characters in "The Champ"

THE CHAMP, who at 40 continues to knock off youthful aspirants to fistic glory.

KID O'MALLEY, youthful and clever fighter matched to fight the Champ.

One day a figure familiar in the Champ's camp sidled into the small office maintained there by Izzy Weintraub.

"Well—I done it," he told Izzy.

Izzy surveyed the ragged furtive little man with disdain. He never had been able to find out his place in the Champ's scheme of things. All he knew was that about the middle of the training period saw him disappear, and shortly afterward closet himself with the Champ. The little man's hands were unsteady, and his cheeks and eyes carried the burn of whiskey.

"You—Rum-Dum," Izzy sputtered. "You done it—hah! So what is it you done?"

The little man shook his head.

"Get d' Champ," he mumbled, "he's expectin' me."

Izzy sent a messenger and the Champ appeared.

"Hello, Joey," he said, "so you got here, did you? Okay, let's go to my room. No, Izzy," he held a dissenting hand up, "we won't need you, this is strictly between us."

Izzy fumed, but fumed in vain.

Upstairs, the Champ listened carefully to the rapid words of his confidant. At length he sighed.

"They all have it—one bad fault, all these nice kinds. Well, thanks old-timer," he fished a roll of bills from his pocket and carefully peeled a 50 off. "Here you are. It ought to be more, but you'd drink more up just that much faster." The little man shuffled self-consciously. "It was a lucky day for me when I ran into you," the Champ continued, "just a hanger-on, a little mug with a camera eye for a fighter's weakness. But I guess it's kept me up there as much as anything else."

O'MALLEY'S FLAW

The little man left him then, and the Champ thought back to the night after Young Mexico had cut him to pieces, and a hesitant stranger had approached him. He almost had pasted the intruder, who spoke rapidly. Then curiosity held him back, and was followed by interest. The slightly alcoholic stranger clearly showed him exactly what had been wrong with his style—exactly those weaknesses in young Mexico, he had missed following up. And, in the return fight, he had remembered, and knocked Young Mexico out in the third.

It had been a turning point. After that, before every fight the stranger appeared, more shabby and alcoholic as the years went on, and tipped him off. This time, as usual, he had picked a flaw that was covered to most expert eyes by the flashy footwork of Kid O'Malley. When he threw his right, the Kid was wide open for a left hook to the button. Fast—sure, but not so fast that perfect timing could not profit through that fatal defect.

The fight was no thrill to the Champ. The same crowd there, booing him, and cheering his opponent. The same kid, almost, as so many of them that had danced for a while in front of his murderous fists. The same—almost. Through these first six rounds, the Champ had been aware of strange sensation, something that interfered with the precision of his work.

Three times the Kid had presented the opening he knew would come, and not once had he thrown the jolting left that would ruin another promising career in the ring. Why not—this time, carry the youngster. The Champ thought of the horror of the loser's dressing room, the cold floors, and lackadaisical rubbers. He thought of the sickened feeling of a kid coming out of a knockout—the realization that the big chance had gone—probably for good. What the h— after 15 years on top maybe it was time to step down.

"Get goin'," Izzy pleaded, "Wassamatta wit' cha? You want we should go to th' poorhouse?"

The Champ shook the water out of his eyes. Maybe Izzy was right. Then the unfamiliar lassitude came over him again. He looked at the Kid, nervously sitting on his stool across the ring. Did he have a chance? That would be foremost in his mind. Then a voice sounded in his ear. Across the years, it grasped his heart like an iron hand, this voice of a woman.

"He's gonna lick ya. He'll knock ya cold. An' dya know who he is?"

The Champ wheeled, and saw a face no longer recognizable, for a moment, before the ushers pounced on its owner and dragged her away. Yet, unrecognizible as it was, he knew it.

"Madge," he muttered, and stared across the ring, "Madge—and—" As the bell rang, he lurched to his feet like a drunken man, and studied the face of his dancing young antagonist with terrible intensity. His memory flashed two other faces before him—his own and one other's—Madge's—as they had been twenty years before. This was why instinct had plucked at his elebow all through the fight. He had not been able to strike down the man he subconsciously recognized. You can't—not if he's your own son.

As he moved about the ring with instinctive skill, the Champ began to build a perfect play. He would have to be careful. He'd wait until the Kid was just starting one of those rights he had avoided so easily. Then—a little slip would do it, he would be open to the blow. His son would be Champ.

Then another series of pictures raced through his mind. The life a champion leads. Either monasticism or the gay chute that leads fighters to ridicule and oblivion. The final vagueness that so many get as a result of too many punches in the head. This boy—this son, might some day walk on his heels mumbling punch-drunk phrases, some day, if he let him win. His lips straightened into a thin tight line, and his eyes became cold and wary. It was the hard way, but it was the way to take.

Kid O'Malley had sensed the slowing up of the Champ, and he saw what looked like an opening. Like a flash he let his right go with all his power. In the split second that followed, he felt as though the roof had fallen on his head, and then there came a merciful blackness.

The sports writers weren't surprised when Izzy Weintraub announced the Champ's retirement from the ring. Nobody even bothered to check up on where he had gone and what he was doing. He was dead—and buried in the records. There would be an elimination tournament a good thing, the boys felt.

ALL FOR THE KID

And one who never took part in the elimination was Kid O'Malley. A week after his knockout, he was summoned to a downtown insurance building, where a gray haired man, who held a letter before him, smiled at the Kid across his desk.

The gray-haired man looked at the letter again.

"—and tell him everything," it read, "because this is why I've been a tightwad all these years. Only—tell him, it's his without strings, but try to make him see what I'm afraid to attempt—and to give up fighting. He won't want to see me—I know that. So don't tell him where I am. Only be sure he knows why I threw the punch that stopped him."

The gray-haired man cleared his throat. He talked for a long time.

"So the annuity is yours to do with as you please," he said. "ou know the whole story. Will you take it?" It seems a superfluous question, and the young man's answer seemed strange.

"Only on one condition," he said.

"A condition ——?" the insurance man was puzzled.

"Yes— a condition," said Kid O'Malley. His memory was bitter, as he thought of a childhood spent leaving one fourth-rate hotel for another, a mother who was abusive when she wasn't drunk—of many other things. Of being forced into the fight game through a sense of duty, and because of endless recriminations. Of the almost obscene rage, the screamings and reviling rage when the Champ knocked him out. Well—there was enough here to take care of her too. "The condition is," he repeated, "that you tell me where I can find the Champ—and how quicky. I can get there."

THE END

"He's gonna lick ya. He'll knock ya cold. An' dya know who he is?" the familiar woman said.

You'll enjoy the thrilling story on this page tomorrow. The title is "Lost Addresses."

Louis-Godoy Gate Example Of Drop From Golden Era

AUSTEN LAKE

BEING CURIOUS ABOUT SUCH THINGS I wired Judge K. M. Landis, Lord Privy Seal of baseball, asking, "What is your objection to Boston Bees being owned by operators of Suffolk Downs track?" I had hoped for a definition of the Jedge's prejudice against linking a baseball park and a horse plant under one sponsorship. But the effervescent judge replied thusly, "Pulse and blood pressure normal. Patient staying out of the sun. And how have you been yourself?" Concise, huh?

One night last February after Arturo Godoy took a technical licking from Joe Louis, the chunky Chilean stood under the showers in the basement of the New York Garden. The shuffling feet of the fight fans, oozing toward the streets came dimly from above. Godoy's nose looked like a foot, there was a purpling droop on his left eye, his lips wore a swollen pout. But he was jubilant and his shoe-button black eyes gleamed. For Arturo considered that he had gained a spiritual triumph in staying fifteen rounds with the "Sepia Assassin." Said he, "Ugh! I should haf 'ad more fights before thees one . . . for seex mont' I do not fight teel tonight. Boot nex' time . . . ha! . . . you watch. I weel be ready then!" Tonight at 10 o'clock is "next time." Ready, Arturo?

Recently a famous medical clinic in Maryland wrote, politely requesting that in event of his death, the Angel, who is Paul Bowser's primeval throwback, deed his body and brain for scientific study. Not that the Maryland medicos expected the Angel's light to be snuffed out in the immediate future! Only, since he had to die sometime, they hoped to have prior claim on his cadaver to see what queer quirk had made him sprout at such odd angles. They are willing to wait. So is the Angel.

Comedown From Golden Era

ALWAYS CHILDISHLY OPTIMISTIC THE New York Garden is talking a $200,000 gate for the Louis-Godoy fight tonight, which would have been mere cigarette money in the golden era of Tex Rickard and Jack Dempsey. When Tex's Midas, and not always too scrupulous, touch died, big boxing money went with it. His five biggest fight gates in history were: Sept. 22, 1926—Tunney-Dempsey, $2,568,660; Sept. 23, 1927—Tunney-Dempsey (Philadelphia), $1,895,733; July 2, 1921—Dempsey-Carpentier, $1,789,238; Sept. 14, 1923—Dempsey-Firpo, $1,188,603; July 21, 1927 (indoors)—Dempsey-Sharkey, $1,083,529. By comparison the Johnson-Jeffries fight at Reno on July 4, 1910, drew only $270,775.

Have a look at the ball club known as "the most savage pellet punishers in history" a scant nine months ago. The New York Yankees, identical with the wrecking crew which disintegrated the Reds in four straight games, is hitting a feeble .244, last in the American League. At the moment there are only two regulars hitting above .300—Selkirk and Joe DiMaggio, both .322. Dickey, Rolfe and Crosetti are below .220.

For the last week Max Baer, who put the chump in championship, has suffered from bunions and a heavy head congestion. He has gone to a chiropodist to have his toes repaired, but refuses to consult a physician about his stuffed head. Said Addled Adelbert, "Nature takes care of the head, but the feet need an expert."

Fighters; Fun Vs. Necessity

EUROPE'S FOREMOST HEAVYWEIGHT FIST fighters—Georges Carpentier, Paolino Uzcudun, Primo Cárnera, Max Schmeling and Tommy Farr, five men who thrilled American sport crowds in their different eras have suffered from war's tribulations. Carpentier, in the French air corps, is said to have flown his plane to North Africa, leaving behind his Paris cafe and fortune in real estate to Nazi conquerors. Paolino is dead these many months, victim of a Spanish loyalist bomb. Carnera, when last heard of was hospitalized in an Austrian paralytic asylum. Schmeling is a self-exile from Nazi whims, living in Lisbon, Portugal. And Tommy Farr is reported to have been among the British troops evacuated from the Flanders pocket.

By snooping among the men who sell little colored race stubs in the pari-mutuel windows at Suffolk, one may add to his study of human habits. Hundreds of people ask, nay, demand! that the ticket sellers punch out a coupon at random, although the vendors seldom know more than the names and numbers of the horses. Hundreds of others, after buying tickets, change their minds and scuttle back in the hope of exchanging their stubs. Frequently a customer will buy tickets on every horse in a race. And at least 20 per cent of the purchasers switch from the horse of their own choosing to copy the selection of the person who buys just ahead of them, on the theory that the other fellow must know more than they. He couldn't know less!

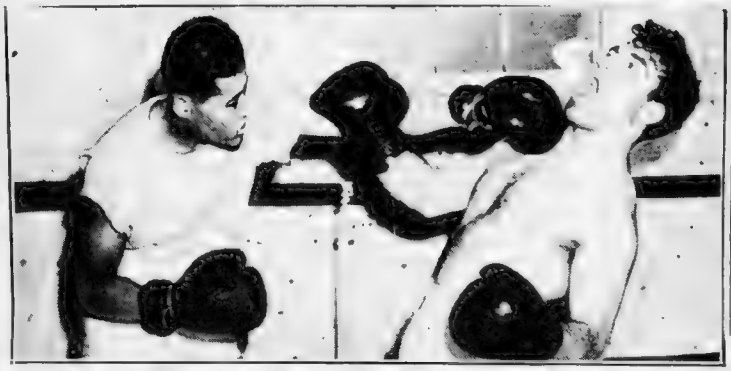
THE TRUE STORY OF WHY THE RED SOX lost Pee-wee Reese, the cum laude shortstop of last year's Louisville team, to Brooklyn has never been told. Fact is that the Red Sox, instead of owning a majority of Louisville stock, control only one-third. Hence when Bill Evans, Red Sox chief scout, recommended to his home office that they bid no higher than $50,000 for Reese, Brooklyn took him at $75,000. Louisville's loyalties to its co-partner was not equal to the extra $25,000. Hence today there is a distinct coolness between Fenway Park and its No. 1 breed farm.

CONWAY PICKS LOUIS BY KAYO BEFORE 13TH



"OH, OH" Joe O'Gatti registers open-mouth astonishment at power of Joe Louis' left jab. Joe has weapon primed for his return meeting with Arturo Godoy tonight. They meet over 15-round route at Yankee Stadium. Godoy using the Chilean crawl, swam the distance with champion in first bout.

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, June 20 Joe Louis is a 6 to 1 favorite to successfully defend his world's heavyweight championship against Arturo Godoy of Chile in their 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium tonight.

You could hold all the money that has been wagered on Godoy in your new summer hat.

The price is 2-1 on Louis that the champion scores a knockout inside of the limit. There is much more speculation as to the "Brown Bomber's" ability to stop the Chilean chiller than there is on the question of the title changing hands.

Godoy weathered 15 rounds against Louis last winter, and his admirers are confident he will do so again.

WILL STRAIGHTEN GODOY

It is my opinion Louis will win by a knockout between the eighth and 13th rounds. Joe will have to wait until he straightens Godoy up before he can hope to score with a knockout.

"I'll get Godoy out of his crouch after a few rounds," said Louis today, "and then I'll get working on him. I feel I shall score a knockout. I always do knock out boxers who have

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Joe Louis tipped the scales at the lowest figure since he won the heavyweight title from Jimmy Braddock in 1937 when he weighed in today for defense of his own crown against Arturo Godoy of Chili at the Yankee Stadium tnight.

The champion weighed 199 pounds, 1¾ pounds more than the night he knocked out Braddock, and four less than when he outpointed Godoy last February. The Chilean weighed 201½ pounds.

Browns, A's Tighten A. L. Race

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1940

NATS ALONE WEAK, SAYS GABBY STREET

By JOE CASHMAN

ST. LOUIS, June 20—It isn't improvement on the part of the Red Sox, Indians and Tigers that is resulting in the tightest American League race in years, but rather a strengthened second division.

That's the opinion of Charles "Gabby" Street, former Browns and Cardinals manager, who is now gaining fame as baseball commentator for a Mound City radio station.

"Not only the first division but the entire league has tightened up," Street points out. "The Browns and A's, while still in the second flight, are probably the most improved clubs in the loop.

THOSE DAYS GONE

"That's why the race is close and will remain so right down to the finish.

"The Yanks, in other years, could massacre the Browns, A's and, yes, the White Sox. They can no longer. There you have the reason why they're now trailing instead of being far out in front of the Sox, Indians and Tigers.

"When I had these Browns, a visiting pitcher had only to worry about two batters in our lineup, Harlond Clift and Beau Bell. Facing the A's, he had only to be concerned about Bob Johnson and Wally Moses. In short, he had to bear down less than a third of the time.

"When that was the case, a club as strong as the Yanks could count on winning as many games as they happened to have scheduled in a series with the St. Louis and Philadelphia clubs.

NEED ONLY GOOD PITCHING

"That's all changed, particularly in the case of the Brownies. There isn't a soft spot in their batting array now. Any time they get a well pitched game they're as even bet to beat any rival.

"How the pennant contenders fare against one another will settle this race. None of the top four clubs will run riot against any of the second division entries, unless they do it against my old Washington club.'

Our Red Sox will sadly subscribe to all that Street has to say about the Browns.

By winning the first two games of the current series the Mound City crew is now the only rival to boast as many as four triumphs over the Fenway flock.

BROWNS LOOK BETTER

And the natives looked to be the better club in winning the past two afternoons.

They came right back, after overcoming a three-run lead and taking the opener in 11 innings, to wipe out a four-run handicap and grab the midweek melee, 6 to 4, in regulation distance.

The Sox played bad ball in the first game. They didn't yesterday. They were licked fairly and squarely despite having a 4 to 0 lead entering the fourth and getting a dozen hits good for 20 bases.

The Brownies came bouncing up from the floor as though they were contenders and thanks chiefly to Outfielder Walter Judnich, erstwhile Yankee farmer, pulled the chestnuts from the flames.

Judnich knocked in four runs off Herbert Hash with a homer in the fourth and singled in the fifth, tying the score, and registered the run which broke the deadlock in the eighth when he raced in from third on a safe squeeze bunt by Don Heffner, which Hash couldn't field.

SOX K. O. BOB HARRIS

The Sox made seven of their safeties and all their runs off the starting Bob Harris, who was taken out with one down in the third.

Then Roxie Lawon, an ex-Tiger, came in to hurl scoreless ball the rest of the way.

The Browns, all pepped up over four straight wins, are nominating Emil "Lefty" Bill Bildilli and Johnny Niggeling.

MANUEL SALVO ALBAN GLOSSOP

SOX ALUMNI. Not cum laude, to be sure, but both Manuel Salvo and Alban Glossop were tried out by Red Sox and found wanting. They are now with Bees. Salvo is a pitcher, Glossop, Jim Bagby's pal, an infielder.

Belmont Fans Card Banquet For Champions

Belmont High school's baseball champions, recent conquerors of Turners Falls in the state title battle, will be feasted at a banquet next Thursday night at the high school sponsored by the Belmont Boosters Committee.

Mr. Carroll A. Oliver, 11 Douglas rd., Belmont, is in charge of reservations for the affair.

The committee includes Selectmen J. Watson Flett, Dr. Gilmore C. Dickey and Charles E. Betts and James D. Shute, chairman; William C. Heyd, Walter C. Conroy, F. Jefts Beide and Arthur G. Coffin.

Tigers' Pitching Best, Yankee Scout Admits

NEW YORK, June 20 (INS)—Detroit's pennant bid is given due consideration everywhere today, but nowhere is the upsurge of the Tigers taken more seriously than in the organization of the New York Yankees.

Just how serious the Detroit threat is may best be judged by the words of one of the old Yankee scouts, who said today:

"A month ago I was sure we had the best pitching in our league. Now I must admit Detroit's pitching is tops.

"We still look best on paper, but on the mound—where it counts—the Tigers are showing us something."

It needs only a glance at the records to show how well Newsom, Bridges, Rowe, Gorsica, Newhouser Benton and the rest of the Tiger moundsmen have been pitching.

This pitching, plus the power generated by Greenberg, Gehringer, et al., is more than enough to give the staggering Yanks, the slipping Red Sox and the dissentious Indians the heebie-jeebies.

Buck Newsom had to travel 10 heats to earn his eighth straight victory yesterday, but he made it over the Athletics, 5 to 4. Then Schoolboy Rowe took over in the second game and, with a little help from Benton in the ninth, won his fifth straight by a 9 to 4 count.

Meanwhile the Yanks were blowing a 1-0 decision to Southpaw Thornton Lee and the White Sox and the Red Sox were being trimmed by the Browns, 6 to 4.

Chief interest in the Yankee defeat rests in the fact that Catcher Bill Dickey, for years the main cog in the Yankee attack, was benched in favor of Buddy Rosar.

Heroes and Goats

By International News Service

THE HEROES—Buck Newsom and Schoolboy Rowe, Tiger pitchers, who took a doubleheader from the Athletics, Buck winning his eighth straight game and Rowe his fifth; Thornton Lee, White Sox, who shut out the Yanks.

THE GOATS—Herb Hash, Red Sox pitcher, who lost to the Browns after his mates gave him a four-run lead; Nelson Potter, Athletics, who gave up a lyin homer in the ninth and then blew the game in the 10th to the Tigers.

Can We Stay Out Of The WAR?

What do you think? Will a carefully conceived and well administered defense plan keep us out or do certain forces exist which are powerful enough to draw us into it?

The vital question of the hour, "Can We Stay Out of the War," is answered by a group of government and economic experts from a leading college and university on Sunday.

BROOKLYN PITCHER HAMLIN SAID TO HAVE JUMPED CLUB

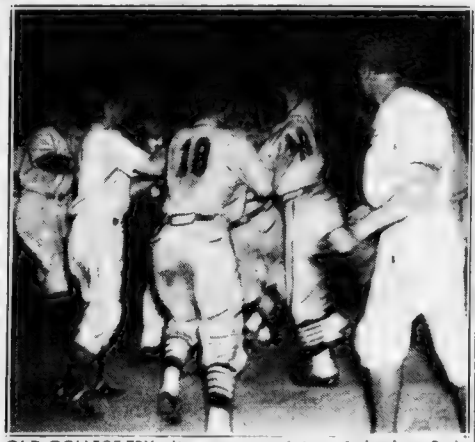
NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—If rumors flying around Brooklyn turn out to be the McCoy, Dodgers had another big headache on their hands today.

The gossipers say right-hander Luke Hamlin, the club's only 20-game winner last season, has jumped the club and gone back to his Michigan potato farm in a huff.

Club officials wouldn't say yes or no. Asked if Hamlin was on hand for last night's game with the Cardinals, Secretary McDonald said:

"Come to think of it, I didn't see him, at that."

Hamlin is reported to have been considerably miffed when President Larry MacPhail popped off about Luke's "home run ball" which cost the Dodgers Tuesday's game with St. Louis.



OLD COLLEGE TRY—It appears very riotous indeed, as Cards and Dodgers push and punch during last night's Brooklyn game. Nobody was hurt, but Catcher Mickey Owen of the Cards was banished after his duel with Leo Durocher of the Dodgers and fined $50 today. Flareup was another incident in Card-Dodger feud which made headlines after Card Pitcher Bob Bowman beaned Dodger Ducky Medwick the other day.

Medwick 'Beaning' Investigated by D. A.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Things have been pretty dull in Dist. Atty. William O'Dwyer's office ever since he ran "Murder, Inc." out of town.

So it's small wonder that O'Dwyer and his aides jumped at the chance to see "if a crime had been committed" when Pitcher Bob Bowman of the St. Louis Cardinals beaned Joe Medwick, the $150,000 bargain beauty of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The district attorney admits he is not a very good Brooklyn fan.

"I have an open mind on the matter, but because of reports of bad feelings between the players I am acting . . ." he said.

"LEAVE US TEAR"

No true Brooklynite could possibly have an open mind on the matter. Wasn't our Ducky, an adored hero, felled by a fifth columnist, who also called him harsh words in an elevator that same morning?

"Leave us tear Bowman limb from limb," became the Brooklyn banner behind which thousands of Flatbushers rallied.

Certainly, the entrance of the district attorney into a simple case of beaning (an unhappy and painful accident that happens occasionally in baseball) makes Brooklyn once again the gay, unpredictable carnival town where wonders never cease.

FRICK IRED BY PROBE

National League President Ford Frick doesn't seem to be fully in accord with the inquiry into the official legal aspects of the case. He hinted—and broadly—that baseball is fully capable of keeping its own skirts clean.

Nobody in Brooklyn seems to think much will come of the inquiry. After all, Bob said it was unintentional, and who can say otherwise?

So it looks as though they'll spend the next few days cooking up a batch of whitewash which then will be skillfully applied to the whole case.

And all the while, back in the counting house, almost buried in a welter of headlines, sits Laughing Larry MacPhail, who built the Bowman beaning into a page 1 sensation, a case for the district attorney—and a potential source of some pretty hefty revenue for his beloved ball club.

DODGERS SIGN COLLEGIAN

ROCKWELL CITY, Ia., June 20 (AP)—Harold Haub, who won 21 games and lost 7 during his three-year pitching career at the University of Iowa, has signed a contract with Elmira, N. Y., of the Eastern League. The club is operated by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Owen Fined

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, today fined Mickey Owen, Cardinals catcher, $50 and suspended him four days for conduct tending to incite disorder in last night's Brooklyn-St. Louis game at Ebbets Field.

BARNICLE RELEASED; FETTE HURLS TODAY

Ready, willing and, they hope, able, the Bees today tangle with the Frischburg Pirates in an attempt to make it three out of four on the sunny side as they wind up their current series.

Lou Fette, who looks like he's got it once again, will go for Stengel against Max Butcher, the lad who came up with the two hitter the first day Al Lopez joined the Bucs.

With both of them right it should be a mound tussle well worth taking in.

The Bees looked for a while as though they couldn't miss capturing the series yesterday when the guy who turns on the hose did go, and how.

BUCCS NEARLY ROBBED

Frankie Frisch, with visions of an obvious win being rained into oblivion, with his pets leading three to Oh in the fifth, and the bases loaded, was scheduling a cot in the observation ward when the downpour turned to drizzle and then faded away entirely.

The field was pretty soggy, but the ump in charge was Bill Stewart and he's used to skating around in slush during the hockey season. He thought conditions were just dandy and ordered play resumed.

The Pirates pushed two more across in that fifth and that was plenty. Max West belted home a run for the Casey cause as he continued a hitting spree, but that was the only marker the Bees came close to chalking.

FIRST LOSS OF SEASON

It was the first defeat charged to Richard Merriwell Errickson as against four wins. He was not up to the form he showed in his last quartet of starts.

Large Manuel Salvo, acquired from the Jernts in the Cuccinello sale, mopped up for R. Merriwell and looked right impressive.

Four hits were all the Bucs could pick up and two of those were what our Mr. Grimes calls bloopers. The first inning he pitched he was really hot striking out all three men who faced him. You can't ask much better than that.

Following the defeat it was announced at the Apiary that Pitcher George Barnicle is being sent to Syracuse on option.

Replacing Barnicle on the Bees pitching staff is Ace Williams, the classy Amherst College portsider, who goes on the active list today.

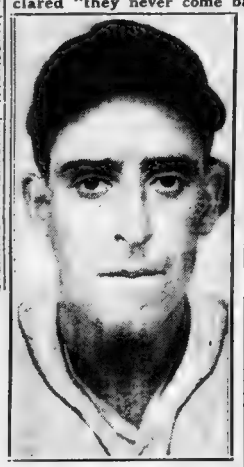
Control, Screwball Answer to Smith's Brilliant Comeback

CLEVELAND, June 20 (AP)—The man who declared "they never come back" wasn't acquainted with Pitcher Alfred John Smith.



AL SMITH
Pitching Sensation

A year ago all the National League clubs figured the 32-year-old southpaw was "washed up." The Cleveland Indians picked him up from Buffalo and today he's the comeback sensation of the American loop.

The black-haired hurler figures he is near the pitching lead, through seven victories and only one defeat, because he developed a good screwball pitch and control during his exile from the senior circuit. Only Detroit's Lyn (Schoolboy) Rowe and Buck Newsom have better records.

"I haven't got enough stuff to get by unless I have excellent control," he declared. "I threw too many good balls with the New York Giants—'fat' pitches that the batters could hit.

WAIVED OUT

"My lack of control also caused the Phillies to let me go last spring." So all the National Leaguers waived him down the river to Buffalo.

Smith always had "dabbled a bit" with a screwball delivery, but was afraid to use it. He experimented under the tutelage of Steve O'Neill, former Cleveland manager who pilots the International Leaguers, and wound up last season with 16 wins and only two beatings.

"My curve and fast ball are not as good as when I was in the National, but I'm mixing them up a little more," he explained.

"I just go out and try to win—that's all you can do. Luck has a lot to do with it. I might go out there and start throwing 'fat' ones again tomorrow."

EXCELLENT FISHERMAN

Before this season started, when Smith still was wondering about this comeback business, he said "if I knew as much about pitching as I do about fishing, I'd lead the league."

He is close to leading the league, and the Indians' rivals will tell you he knows plenty about pitching. Only the Yanks have beaten him and that was by one run. His latest triumph was a 2-1 decision over Washington Tuesday night.

Nazi Invasion Cost Wideners 19 Fast Horses

PHILADELPHIA, June 20 (AP)—Peter A. B. Widener said today his father's racing stables "stand to lose about $250,000, the value of 19 horses we had stabled in Normandy (France) before the German invasion."

"Where they are now—whether safe or destroyed—I have no idea," added the son of Joseph E. Widener, widely known American turfman.

"One of the missing horses is Vitrix, a five-year-old whom we consider the greatest of all handicap horses. Another is Confidence, a French mare. Then there's Tatoo, and I feel very lucky in having two of her daughters now in our training stables at Elmendorf, Ky.

"From a breeder's standpoint, the blood lines of those horses are invaluable."

HUB NET STAR STILL IN FIGHT

FAVORITE. Seeded No. 1, Baba Madden of Jamaica Plain is favored to capture singles title in college girls tennis at Longwood. Baba was to meet Barbara Vixler of Smith today in semi-final match.

Play in the annual girls' intercollegiate tennis tournament continues today at the Longwood Cricket Club, Brookline with semi-finals in the girls' singles and other early round play in the doubles.

Up to the present, only one upset has taken place. This occurred when Frances Prindle of Vassar succumbed to the steadier all-around play of Barbara Vixler of Smith College in a marathon match on the quarter-finals. The scores were 7—5, 6—8 and 9—7.

Miss Prindle, who hails from New Haven and was seeded fourth, gave promise during her early round matches that she would be a serious threat to the crown. But all hopes went up with the heat before the rain interfered during the afternoon matches and forced Mrs. George Wightman, chairman of the tournament, to call off play in other matches.

The other three top seeded players, Mercedes "Baba" Madden of Jamaica Plain and Lake Erie College freshman, seeded No. 1, Katherine Hubbell of Dedham and Vassar College, next seeded, and Christine Waples, seeded third, of Bryn Mawr, easily survived quarter-final matches.

As a result of yesterday's play, today's draw finds Baba Madden meeting Barbara Vixler, the upsetter, and the other will be between Christine Waples and Katherine Hubbell.

Miss Madden, who drew a bye in her first round, swung into action for the first time yesterday in the singles class and easily won her two matches.

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, JUNE 20—Joe Louis and Arturo Godoy, Chilean Chiller, will be lucky to draw $175,000 in their 15-round bout tonight . . . Jack Dempsey when champion pulled $1,000,000 in at the gate with Louis Firpo, South American, as an opponent . . . The difference between $175,000 and $1,000,000 represents the superior rating of Dempsey and Firpo as fighters over Louis and Godoy.

Godoy likes to hide away in a crouch, and tango out of the way of his opponent's punches . . . Firpo was a wide open fighter who got his greatest thrill barraging with both hands to head and body.

JACK DEMPSEY

The Dempsey-Firpo bout was the greatest heavyweight battle this writer ever witnessed . . . Dempsey scored five knockdowns in the first rounds, Firpo two . . In addition the South American knocked Dempsey out of the ring . . . In the second session, there were two knockdowns . . . Dempsey scored both of them after which Firpo's seconds carried him to his corner.

If there are any knockdowns tonight, Louis will be the one to count with them . . . The "Brown Bomber" didn't succeed in dropping Godoy to the canvas in their 15-round bout at the New York Garden last winter, but this is another battle . . . Louis now knows Godoy's style . . . The record proves that the champion does very well when he faces the same pitching for the second time.

Mike Jacobs attributes the lack of wild public interest in tonight's bout to the war . . . There is little doubt but that the war news has taken away some of the attention that would ordinarily be given to the Louis-Godoy jam . . . The real reason why the interest is low in the title go is because it does not shape up as a thrilling bout . . . If Godoy should elect to remain in his crouch and Louis proves unable to make him stand up and fight, the show may be rather painful for the cash customers.

Godoy, of course, could make it a sensational battle by keeping his promise to make it a punching duel . . . The Chilean would then become a ring favorite overnight, especially if he avoided ending up on one of his ears.

Jimmy Johnston Picks Louis to Win

JIMMY JOHNSTON walked right out on a limb and named Louis to lick Godoy.

"Louis is a better fighter than most people give him credit for being," said Johnston . . . "It isn't Louis' fault that most of the heavyweight contenders are only ordinary fighters . . . Joe would like to see a few Dempseys around . . . If Louis had an opponent of Dempsey's ability, he could make enough money in one fight to retire.

"One must give Louis credit for keeping active in the ring, and for meeting all comers.

"I believe Bob Pastor would have a better chance of beating Louis than anyone else . . . I don't say Bob would win, but he is fast and clever enough to give Joe a close battle . . . At Detroit last fall, Pastor might have won if he didn't get the crazy idea into his head that he could outpunch the champion . . . When Pastor started slugging with Louis, he tossed away any chances he had of winning.

"Pastor's next bout will be with Billy Conn in New York on Aug. 13 . . . Pastor will wreck the build-up of Conn as a heavyweight contender . . . Bob will then be prepared to take on Louis in September."

Racing Interest Grips New York

WITH LEGALIZED pari-mutuel betting at the New York tracks, interest in the thoroughbred sport here has increased . . . The average daily handle at Aqueduct is running over $500,000 . . . They have plenty of good horses for the New York racing, while a healthy share of favorites have been winning . . . With the form horses coming down in front, the money of the winners has kept going back into the mutuel machines . . . It is always a good thing for the mutuel handle at a track to have the first or second favorite win . . . When long shots click, most of the money is not played back at the track on the day it is paid out.

A large delegation of New Yorkers is planning to attend the running of the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs next month . . . The Massachusetts Handicap has come to be considered one of the top races of the year.

Random Shots at Target

EDDIE MEAD says the Henry Armstrong-Lew Jenkins 12-round non-title bout next month will outdraw the Louis-Godoy affair, and I am inclined to believe he is right . . . The fans know that when Armstrong and Jenkins swing into action they will witness one of the best battles between little men held in recent years . . . Jenkins proved he is a terrific puncher when he knocked out Lou Ambers . . . Armstrong will try to build up speed so that he will be able to keep inside of Jenkins' sock.

I'LL WIN BY K. O., SAYS LOUIS

managed to go the distance with me in a previous bout."

Louis looked in good condition today for his meeting with Godoy. It was quite apparent Louis has trained harder for tonight's bout than he did for his last meeting with Godoy. When Joe first met the South American he thought he would be able to knock him out quickly. Louis was baffled by Godoy's crouching, bobbing, weaving style of boxing and could not land many effective blows.

DEMAND KNOCKDOWN RULE

John Roxborough has asked the boxing commission to rule it a knockdown if Godoy, boxing close to the floor of the ring, touches the canvas with his gloves.

Godoy has not any fear of Louis. The Chilean is physically and mentally fit for the match, and it is expected he will make a good showing before he finally meets with defeat.

Al Weill will direct things in Godoy's corner. Al managed Lou Ambers and Joey Archibald into world's championships, and insists he will have the heavyweight champion of the world after tonight's quarrel.

If Godoy wins he will be the first South American to ever hold the heavyweight crown.

$27.50 AT RINGSIDE

With ringside seats selling at $27.50 a copy, Mike Jacobs is hopeful that the late ticket rush may carry the gate receipts to the $175,000 mark. Mike has been obliged to make numerous changes in his original estimate of $400,000 for tonight's bout.

Mike doesn't want Godoy to win. "If Louis is to be beaten, I would like to see an American perform the feat," said Mike. "You never can tell what these foreigners are going to do if they win a world's title."

I suggested to Mike that Billy Conn is an American, and that if he could beat Louis he would be as popular as Dempsey.

Jacobs smiled and nodded his head. It is very apparent there is quite a strong movement on to help Conn up the road that leads to the heavyweight championship.

DONOVAN TO REFEREE

Arthur Donovan is expected to referee tonight's bout despite his prediction in a recent magazine article that Louis will beat Godoy. There was a charge from the Godoy camp that Donovan has prejudiced the bout, but Gen. John Phelan told the boys to stop talking nonsense. The General and Bill Brown know that Donovan is honest and capable and that if Godoy wins he will get Donovan's vote.

Tony Galento in an effort to break into print declares he could beat both Louis and Godoy. He does not fail to mention the fact he is boxing Max Baer at Jersey City on July 2.

Harvard Crew Test Vital to Ed Leader After Nine Defeats

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 20 (AP)—The Harvard-Yale rivalry, to be renewed on the four-mile Thames River course tomorrow evening, is the oldest event in American college athletic history.

ED OLIVER

Actually, the race this year can be important only to Harvard and Yale, and the old Harvards and the old Yales. Each was beaten in its sprint season, though only once, and there is no title at stake.

It will be a deadly serious affair, however, and notably so for Coach Ed Leader and his Yales.

Since Tom Bolles took over as Harvard head coach, the Elis have lost nine consecutive races on the Thames—the varsity four-mile haul in 1937, and all four races—varsity, jayvee, freshman and combination—in each of the succeeding two years.

It now remains to be seen what sort of a wonder-worker Leader is.

The varsity he put together last Saturday night, after his previous No. 1 boat had been taking consistent lickings from the Jayvee eight, never has raced as a unit, whereas Harvard's boatload has been together since the season's start, with not a man missing even a single practice, and is said to have beaten the course record twice in time trials.

The regatta will get under way at 6:30 p. m. (E. D. T.) this evening, when the "pickle boat" or substitute crews race two miles. The Frosh and Jayvees will open regatta day proper tomorrow morning, while the varsities will go to the mark for their duel at 7:30 p. m.

Oliver Eager To Play Little

HORNELL, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Ed Oliver, chunky young golf professional, said today he would be "tickled to death" to play a series of exhibition matches with National Open Champion Lawson Little.

Oliver, who lost his chance at the open crown in Cleveland two weeks ago when disqualified for beginning his final round ahead of schedule, said he is "perfectly willing to meet Little in a friendly series," and added the money would "come in handy."

Little invited Oliver last night from Chicago to meet him in a series of three-out-of-five 36-hole matches to be played within a month at sites to be determined.

The series, the open champion believed, would "probably more than make up for any prize money" the Hornell pro lost by disqualification.

Wonderland Park Invites Public To Attend Night Schooling Races

Night schooling will start at Wonderland Park tonight and will continue tomorrow and Saturday as a tuneup to the gala opening of the season next Monday.

There are several hundred of the world's leading greyhounds at the Revere track, and all will participate in the trials during the next three nights.

Among the more brilliant of the recent performances at the track were 29-second trials by Mixed Weather and Brave Gesture. The latter was one of the top greyhounds in Florida during the winter season.

Results of these trials will be published in the track program.

The public is invited to attend the schoolings free of charge, and thousands have been taking advantage of the opportunity during the past two weeks at the afternoon programs.

Junior Sees Chances Good Against Champ

PORTLAND, Me., June 20 (AP)—The experts may shake their heads lugubriously but that doesn't bother Monsieur Paul Junior who makes his second try for the world welterweight crown against Henry "The Hammer" Armstrong tomorrow night.

"I've got a chance to beat Armstrong," says the battle-scarred Lewistonian who wound up training yesterday, "and why not?"

A number o freasons come quickly to mind, including Junior's age, somewhere around the 30 mark, and the fact that he was a seventh round technical kayo victim of pugilism's perpetual motion machane at Boston last April. But, to continue with Paul's story:

"I know how he fights, I certainly have had experience and I can punch with him, if I get the rhythm, whether he thinks so or not. I only hope he's over-confident."

The latest pronouncement from Eddie Mead to reach the scene of tomorrow's 12-rounder doesn't reek of over-confidence.

"We expect a hard fight," says the hammer's pilot, "and the champion is prepared for it. In fact, Henry's in better shape now than he was for the last bout."

Lady Maryland Bids For $10,000 Chance

Gustav Ring's Lady Maryland stamped herself a strong possibility for Saturday's $10,000 added New Castle Handicap at Delaware Park when she reeled off a mile trial Wednesday in 1:38 2-5.

Snugly held throughout, Lady Maryland stepped the half in :48, the five furlongs in 1:02, and the three-quarters in 1:15 4-5. Saturday's is the fourth renewal of the New Castle. Mrs. V. Wyse's Orcades is expected from Suffolk Downs to compete in the New Castle.

Girls Play Two Games at Garden

The newly organized New England Softball League gets under way at the Garden tonight with a double-header which finds the Boston Olympets facing the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford and Ben Levias' Totem Pole Girls from Norumbega facing the Worcester Girls.

The Pets face stern opposition in the Hartford nine, which split even in two games with the Boston lassies last year.

Because of this it is expected that Helen Johnston will pitch for the Pets, even though it is Mary Donnell's turn to work. Helen has won her two starts this season in auspicious fashion, allowing only one run in her dual effort.

Miss Donnelly, on the other hand, lost her only start of the year, but it was more through lack of stick-work on her teammates' part than any ineffectiveness of her own. On that occasion she gave the Fisk girls just six hits and fanned ten.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—The Cincinnati Reds defeated Brooklyn, 4-2, to increase their lead to 6½ games.

Yale Counting On Young Wood

The diamond forces of Harvard and Yale, now deadlocked at one victory each, will move to New London, Ct., scene of the famous Crimson-Blue boat races, where the third and final game of the 70th annual series will be contested tomorrow afternoon at Mercer Field.

Coach Joe "Smoky" Wood of Yale is expected to give the starting hurling assignment to Sin Joe, who in a seven-inning relief role received credit for Yale's 12-inning, 8-7, victory achieved Tuesday at New Haven. Harvard mentor, Floyd Stahl, will counter with one of three possibilities, Capt. Tom Healey, who pitched Harvard to its 4-3 decision on Wednesday; Burgy Ayre, fast balling sophomore, who started but was forced to succumb because of his wildness in the first game, or Johnny Schwede, junior, from Milton.

FRANCE GETS TERMS

Report Hostilities to End By Tomorrow or Saturday

ROME, June 20 (AP).—Hostilities between France and the German-Italian alliance are expected to cease Friday or at the latest Saturday, said a Bern, Switzerland, dispatch to the official Stefani News Agency today. The French plenipotentiaries have had a meeting with German representatives in a place not mentioned, the dispatch said, adding that the French envoys have left the meeting place for Bordeaux, temporary French capital.
